U.S. HOPES TO END ARMY DRAFT SOON

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced today a sweeping study which he said could result in elimination of the military draft in the U.S. in the next 10 years.

Johnson, holding a press conference in his office, was asked whether this meant a possible cutback in the size of the armed forces.

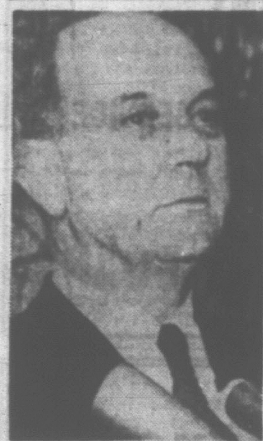

He said that he hoped tensions could be eased, disarmament achieved and some of the resources now devoted to national security be spent "on a better society and a greater society."

At the outset of the session, Johnson described as "totally inaccurate" a published report that he would announce Monday plans for a 45-per-cent cutback in the production of fissionable materials for nuclear weapons.

AFTER 18 DAYS

Belgian MDs Back at Work

BRUSSELS (AP) — The Belgian government today ordered demobilization of military reserve doctors as Belgium's 12,000 physicians and dentists returned to their offices after an 18-day strike.

Attempt To Murder Rusk Feared

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese security forces braced today for a possible attempt on the life of U.S. State Secretary Rusk amid reports that Viet Cong suicide squads might make such a move. The massive air-ground security net thrown around Rusk was tightened after a terrorist bomb was tossed into a military bus early today wounding two U.S. servicemen.

One intelligence report said a Communist suicide squad planned a grenade assassination like that used to kill Thai Lap Thanh, Vietnamese governor-general under the former French regime after the end of the Second World War.

Police intelligence reports, said the Communist Viet Cong planned a wave of bomb explosions in Saigon during the three-day Rusk visit. The bombs were to be directed at electrical transformers around the city, U.S. military installations and American vehicles.

The interior and defence ministries directed all doctors called to active duty last Sunday to report immediately to provincial commanders for demobilization. The order was broadcast by the state radio.

The strike ended even though the dispute over a new socialized medicine law which caused it remained unresolved.

The doctors agreed to meet with the government next Wednesday in an attempt to settle their differences over the controversial legislation.

Belgium's embattled medical profession agreed to call off the strike after 15½ hours of intensive negotiations during which the doctors of Belgium's four universities acted as intermediaries.

Afterwards Premier Theo Lefevre said "conditions now are ripe to reach a prompt agreement on the law would leave no bitterness."

LABOR BACKS PLAN

The government is under strong pressure from Belgium's labor unions to resist major changes in the law which would give more than half of Belgium's 9,000,000 people free medical care or require them to pay only a token charge.

The doctors claim their offices would be flooded with cranks imagining ailments, hospital facilities would become overcrowded considerable book-keeping would be involved and the set fees are too low.

At the start of the walkout, the doctors organized their own emergency hospital service. The government later called up doctors in the military reserves and took over the service.

The service provided the country with a reasonably good level of medical care but as the doctors ended the strike the emergency service showed signs of collapse.

Hundreds of nurses have worked hours that would collapse many men.

TIMMINS' CLAIMS

'Copter Watcher Millionaire Now

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP) — Ned Bragagnolo is a big man in Timmins these days.

With the major copper-zinc-silver discovery here he has parlayed $7,000 into something approaching $2,000,000.

And that is not bad for the son of a poor Italian immigrant family.

"I came from a poor family," Ned says. "We never starved or anything, but after my dad died we always had to hustle to make ends meet."

Bragagnolo, who owns a real estate firm here, started last November to stake 230 claims around the property where Texas Gulf Sulphur Company has hit one of the biggest bonanzas ever.

Asked how much he has made on his ventures, he just smiles and says he is not sure.

The 33-year-old millionaire, father of three children, started staking his claims after "seeing a Texas Gulf helicopter going by my house all the time."

His dealings have netted him not only cash but blocks of stock in mining companies.

He has sold claims to PCE Explorations, Bunker Hill Mining Company, Glenn Uranium, Bruce Presto Mines and Con West Exploration. But the best is yet to come. Mr. Bragagnolo said: "I expect to close my biggest deal Monday."

He says that when all his deals are completed—so far he has sold 50 claims and has 30 companies bidding for the remaining 180—he will make as much again as he has so far.

Emergency Landing

Jet Crashes In Sandstorm; No Survivors

49 Aboard Lebanon Airliner

BAHREIN, Persian Gulf (AP) — A jetliner lost in a desert sandstorm overshot the airport at Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, Friday night and crashed in the Persian Gulf with 49 persons aboard, including 23 Americans.

A U.S. Navy spokesman said a helicopter crew saw no survivors in the wreckage of the Middle East Airlines-Air Liban Caravelle jet spotted this morning in shallow water about 10 miles off the Arabian coast.

The spokesman said the search for survivors was continuing and that more helicopters and small boats had been sent to the crash site, where only one wing of the plane jutted above the waterline.

The twin-jet airliner went down in the Gulf about halfway between Dhahran, an oil city near the Arabian coast, and the archipelago of islands which make up this British-protected Arab sheikdom 15 miles offshore.

An airline spokesman in Beirut, Lebanon, where the flight originated, said the jetliner was flying over wind-whipped desert only three minutes northwest of Dhahran when radio contact was lost Friday.

RAN INTO STORM
The twin-jet airliner took off from Beirut on the two-hour non-stop flight to Dhahran and ran into the sandstorm near the end of the 1,100-mile hop.

Visibility was near zero when the plane began its approach for the night-time landing, then overflew the airport.

Passengers were reported to include 23 Americans, 11 Saudis, four Lebanese, one Syrian, one Bahraini, one Jordanian and one Palestinian. The crew consisted of five Lebanese, one French and one Swiss.

Dhahran, a comparatively modern desert city, is the heart of Saudi Arabia's multi-million-dollar oil operations and the headquarters of the Arabian American Oil Company (Aramco). There is a large American colony in Dhahran connected with Aramco.

Cuban Refugees Adrift on Ocean

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A small open boat with 19 Cuban refugees aboard — eight children, eight women and three men — was adrift in the rough Atlantic Ocean off Miami today, the U.S. Coast Guard reported.

A spokesman said five other Cubans in another small boat accompanying the missing craft were plucked to safety in a basket lowered from a helicopter Friday night.

The rescued refugees were described as cold but in good condition. The three men and two women, one of them five months pregnant, asked that their names be withheld.

The spokesman said the missing boat, a 27-footer, was towing the 20-foot boat occupied by those rescued when they were first sighted Thursday 100 miles south of here.

MILLIONAIRE SPENT LIFE IN HOVEL

TORONTO (CP) — An eccentric millionaire who preferred poverty to rich living was burned to death in a suburban Scarborough Friday night when a candle he used for light set fire to a box of mortgages.

John Michael O'Day, 72, known as "Old Man O'Day" was found on the floor in his kitchen, the only furnished room in the dirty, two-story brick and frame home. The house had no electricity, no water, no toilet and no phone.

Police estimated Mr. O'Day held mortgages worth $1,000,000 and that his estate may total around $2,000,000.

SUFFER NO ILL EFFECTS YET

Island Pair Sleep in Death Sheets

By AB KENT

Two Vancouver Island youths discovered Friday they had slept between sheets from a shipment contaminated with a lethal chemical used to make military nerve gas.

Unlike two North Vancouver boys, they suffered no ill effects.

The two mainlanders, aged five and 11 years, were in comas for 18 hours after coming into contact with flannel sheets damaged by a powerful insecticide concentrate en route by ship from Antwerp.

Both are recovering in hospital after doctors discovered at the last minute what the poison was, enabling them to administer antidotes.

Altogether 500 sheets were disposed of through a salvage dealer in Vancouver, mostly in the Lower Mainland area, although some were sold to Echo Lodge rest home at Hilliers, central Vancouver Island.

All sheets were traced and warnings about them issued Friday night.

The Echo Lodge, operated by Mrs. Lillian Campbell, had not placed the sheets in general service.

"We got 10 pairs," said Fred Campbell, her son, "but only two were used, by my brother, Hugh, and me.

"They were washed first. We had a visit from the local health nurse about it and the health officer will be here on Monday to decide what to do with them."

The health authorities had launched a wide-spread search for 24 to 40 sheets unaccounted for Friday, and the missing ones turned up Friday night.

The investigation involved Vancouver quarantine officer Angus Mackie, North Vancouver MHO; Dr. Lewis S. Anderson, local health services, and the federal food and drug administration.

Dr. Anderson said the sheets were stained with a brown, oily insecticidal spray that leaked from a container on shipboard. It is of a type that is diluted with water and used as pest control in orchards and fields.

The concentrate resists washing; he said, and is known for its persistence.

"There was a case last year in California where a consignment of boys' jeans was contaminated and six youngsters were stricken."

Food and drug technicians discovered the substance was parathion, an organic phosphate that can be absorbed by the skin and enters the bloodstream and nervous system to produce a paralytic effect.

It may be destroyed by burning.

Mr. Mackie, who headed the task of tracing the sheets, said about 200 of the shipment actually bore stain marks and tests will be run on the others to see if they can be salvaged. He likened the spray to military counterpart phosgene, designed to be sprayed in a fine mist, the effect of which can be deadly.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Archbishop Harold Sinden has drawn attention to an outmoded English law which still refers to Canada and the United States as "the Colonies."

The law has never been repealed, he told the Anglican Synod, although it states that no clergyman "trained or ordained in the Colonies" is eligible for appointment as the incumbent of an English parish until he has served a two-year assistant curacy in England.

"Seeing that the colonies have practically disappeared, and that most clergy trained and overseas today compare favorably with their English brethren in their intellectual equipment, as well as in other respects, the act is no longer justified, the archbishop said.

There's a bartender we know who will be mixing his own drinks from here on in—even to his mouthwash.

One day recently he signed up for a new $3,000 life insurance policy. At day's end he reached for the mouthwash and gulped a glass of bleach stored in the bottle by his wife.

Now how does a brand new beneficiary explain a mistake like that?

A poster headed Insane was brought to Victoria this week, by Mrs. Kathleen Macpherson, national president of The Voice of Women.

Under the heading is a colored picture of dead and dying soldiers entitled "Field of Death." And below that the message "Voice of Women works for a peaceful world."

The poster is to be displayed at future meetings of the Victoria branch of the Voice of Women which campaigns against the use of nuclear weapons.

The Craigdarroch Castle Society has worked out a way to light up the historic mansion a little brighter, but it seems they can't afford it.

Kenneth Reid, the city's electrical engineer, worked out the costs—$1,235 for the outside, $419 for the flower beds, $303 for the stained glass windows, plus a monthly light bill of about $27.

That's more money than the society has in the bank at present.

"The society will proceed with this work just as quickly as it possibly can," says president James K. Nesbitt.

Friday was a busy day for Victoria lawyer Robert A. Price. He was in Supreme Court all day arguing a claim for damages, and in the evening appeared on the stage of the Langham Court Theatre in the role of a bandit!

John Guzzwell, the man who built the 20-foot yawl Trekka and sailed her round the world single-handed, is building another boat in England.

And when he's completed the 45-footer—in about 18 months—he'll be heading back to B.C. waters.

With him this time will be his wife and twin 12-month-old sons.

It was a confusing Friday night... on land and on sea.

People kept looking for other people who weren't there.

First, city police looked for four-year-old Linda Moore who was reported lost from her home at 1121 Catherine. They couldn't find the tot and called for a police dog to help in the search.

Then Linda was found—sleeping at home in her brother's bed. Seems she crawled in there without telling anyone and went to sleep. No one thought of looking there for her.

When her daddy told her of the panic she caused "she just laughed and laughed."

Then a befuddled trawler skipper happily making his way home from the West Coast sent out an SOS. He reported he was lost somewhere near Active Pass.

Ferries kept a sharp lookout for the Titanium and other vessels in the vicinity were alerted. She was finally found by the Victoria tug Island Ranger—off Gordon Head where the skipper was straightened out.

Proof that the navy is Victoria's best ambassador comes from Penang, Malaysia where the mayor, C. Y. Choy, now has a miniature of a Victoria cluster lamp post, complete with hanging flower baskets, on his desk.

Presentation, on behalf of our Mayor Dick Wilson, was made by Lt.-Cdr. Daniel Malanguy of Toronto and Victoria. The officer, serving in HMCS Mackenzie, called there while his ship was recently completing a four-month training cruise in the Far East.

The gremlins that haunt newspaper offices struck again Friday in a Times story on the Free Food Stall. The story explained that one of the clients is an unfortunate woman who drifts from "husband" to "husband."

She gets no welfare while living in sin and depends on the stall for food. The story dropped the word "no" spilling the point and probably annoying the welfare branch. We regret the slip.

Interspersed with the slides are color movies of such distinctive Canadian subjects as the Calgary Stampede and RCMP Musical Ride.

Much of the shooting was completed along the route of the new Trans-Canada Highway. Coast-to-coast coverage is given with scenes such as the Victoria Parliament Buildings at night, Niagara's Horse-shoe Falls, Quebec Winter Carnival, the majestic Rocky Mountains and the changing of the guard at Ottawa.

The program is much more than a travelogue. Photoscenic Canada unfolds before the eyes of the viewer on three 12 by 12 foot screens, giving a total area of 12 by 36 feet. For slides, three projectors

KILL LBJ SUMMER JOB PLAN

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The flames turned in by students in a Jefferson High School English class were all entitled: "What I plan to do in the summer of 1964." One shocked the teacher.

The 10th line read: "I'll take a trip to Washington, D.C., and kill the president."

The teacher turned the theme over to the dean of boys, Jorge Garcia, and he called police.

$5,000 BOND

Carl Delvie, 17, was put under $5,000 bond by U.S. Commissioner Paul Game Jr. Friday on a charge of threatening the president's life.

Game asked Delvie whether he still wished to kill President Johnson, and the youngster answered: "That is what I would like to do."

Asked if the theme—which also outlined plans to purge the U.S. of Communists, Jews and Negroes—was an accurate outline of his plans, Delvie said, "yes, sir."

EARN FUNDS

The boy said he planned to spend the summer raising money to hire an assassin, but if he couldn't get the money he would carry out the threat himself. He told Game he would try to get past the president's guards and use poison.

Delvie said he was not a member of any group holding these views.

The boy's mother was asked if she would accept responsibility for her son if he was released. She replied that it would be better that he remain in custody.

Truck Rammer Fined

VANCOUVER (CP) — Keith Mayer, described by a magistrate as a man who had seen "too many TV shows on how to get rid of the opposition," was convicted of dangerous driving Friday for trying to ram a rival mobile coffee truck.

Magistrate Bernard Isman fined Mayer $400 after noting he had already lost his job as driver of a coffee truck.

Court was told Mayer was charged after he ran his sixteen truck directly at a rival truck driven by Mrs. Pearl McDonald, narrowly missing a collision.

Mayer, who admitted his action was "stupid," said he was angry because Mrs. McDonald beat him to hot coffee sales to a gang of street workers. He denied trying to ram the other truck head-on.

A second charge of criminal negligence was dismissed, and a third charge of threatening Mrs. McDonald was withdrawn by the prosecution.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Conciliation talks in a contract dispute between coast lumber companies and some 28,000 members of the International Woodworkers of America were recessed 10 days Friday. Conciliation officer E. P. Fisher said the talks had been going "normally."

BERTON SAYS

Canada's Justice 'Cruel, Inhuman'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pierre Berton told a correction group Friday the so-called justice dispensed by this generation will strike people of the future as "cruel, inhuman and unfeeling."

The Toronto journalist and broadcaster made these charges in a speech to the spring institute of the B.C. Corrections Association.

Revenge against prisoners is substituted for reform in Canadian prisons.

NOT TREATED

Mentally ill convicts are physically punished instead of being treated.

Prisons make more criminals than they cure and breed homosexuals.

Berton said use of the paddle and solitary confinement are evidence of the attitude of revenge.

"It is hard for me to believe that in this country men are still stripped and bound and beaten with various instruments of torture until they scream in terror and their backs wear the welts of the punishment."

TAUGHT BY CRIMINALS

"Under the social strata system that operates in many of our institutions it is very difficult for young men not to want to hero worship the more hardened criminals, who eventually become their mentors and teachers."

Berton said the system of justice favors the upper classes over the lower. Bail and legal advice is more easily available to those with money.

He said some charges, such as vagrancy, are directed against people simply because they are poor. People of lower classes and immigrants usually are punished more severely than those of upper classes, he said.

Miss Victoria Candidates Cut to Ten

The clock tolled midnight for 23 Cinderellas at the Empress Hotel Friday at preliminary eliminations for the May 11-16 Miss Victoria Pageant.

But Victoria Jaycees and their panel of five judges now have 10 finalists, each one anxious to know if Miss Victoria's crown will fit her pretty head.

The aspirants to become the city's queen for 1964 are Myrna Bobroske, 20, 1063 Colville; Jane Bowering, 18, 3000 Beach Drive; Sharon Fowler, 20, 220 Kamloops; Lynda Gower, 19, 1765 Cedar Hill Cross Road; Wendy Herbert, 21, 2057 Brentwood; Sandy Johl, 20, 2311 Blanshard; Diane Martin, 19, 949 Amphion; Barbara Middleton, 19, 1606 Monterey; Lella Paulson, 19, 866 Verdier; and Tisha Richard, 22, 6628 West Saanich Road.

Judges deliberated for an hour and 15 minutes to pick the finalists after Jaycee Peter Brown had the enviable task of escorting the 33 contestants before them.

Each girl was given an opportunity to tell the judges a little about herself and her interests in a brief talk.

For the 10 girls seeking the title, their work has just begun.

Ahead of them is extensive training in beauty and charm under the direction of Helen Beirnes and a month of rehearsals under pageant talent director Art Budd.

Each girl will make modeling appearances every night of Victoria Exhibition at the Memorial Arena. Two girls will display their talent for each of the first five nights.

And on the sixth, Miss Victoria 1964 will be crowned.

Sex Offender Stays In Jail Indefinitely

VANCOUVER (CP)—Frank Dudley Wilband was ordered kept in prison indefinitely Friday following his conviction as a dangerous sexual offender.

It was the first time in B.C. a man had been declared an offender under that section of the Criminal Code and ordered to prison indefinitely.

Mr. Justice F. C. Munroe said Wilband, now serving eight years for his second attack on young girls, had shown he was unable to "control his sexual impulses."

"I am also satisfied that if he were at large, he is likely to commit a further sexual attack against a young girl at the first opportunity."

Fiction-Factory Ben Hecht Dies of Heart Attack at 70

By CHARLES L. WEST

NEW YORK (AP) — Author Ben Hecht, a one-man fiction factory, died in his Manhattan apartment today, an open book and his reading glasses at his side.

The 70-year-old writer of novels, plays and motion picture scripts was found by his wife. She tried to revive him with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and a police emergency crew administered oxygen.

Hecht's physician, Dr. Morton S. Bryer, said he apparently suffered a heart attack.

With only a high school education, the New York-born Hecht went to Chicago and landed a newspaper job on the Chicago Journal in 1910. That was the beginning of a writing career that was to bring him fame and fortune.

He was best known, perhaps, for the play, The Front Page, written in collaboration with Charles MacArthur in 1928. The newspaper men they portrayed became stereotypes for characterizing the profession.

"I'm a professional writer, as another man might be a professional carpenter," Hecht once said. "Writing is easy. It's the rewriting that's hard. I wrote a book three times."

By the time he was 65, Hecht had turned out 65 movies, 25 books, 20 plays, 250 short stories and at least 300 magazine articles.

"I have done the best I can," he said. "I think it's better to keep writing than to labor over every word, trying to make it a gem. I had a friend who did that. He wouldn't write anything unless he was convinced it was his greatest effort. As a result, his style became cramped, rusty and withered."

Hecht and his second wife, the former Rose Caylor, a newspaper woman, had one child, Jenny, a young actress who lives in Greenwich Village.

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A letter signed "FLQ Ont. branch" threatening death to the Queen if she steps on Quebec soil next October was received Friday by the London Free Press and handed to the RCMP.

The letter, purporting to come from the extremist Quebec Liberation Front, was mailed Thursday from Scarborough, a Toronto suburb.

The letter said: "The Queen will be killed next October if she steps on Quebec soil." The RCMP had no immediate comment on the letter, the first in the London area.

'Hanging More Effective'

VANCOUVER (CP)—A prominent Vancouver lawyer says hanging would be a more effective way to get rid of criminals than sending them to jail for life under the Habitual Criminal Act.

Harry Rankin told the B.C. Corrections Association Institute Friday that life terms imposed on those labelled habitual criminals is an admission of the failure of the criminal corrections system.

Mr. Rankin said during a panel discussion that justice in B.C. is unscientific and haphazard. Whether or not a man was convicted and the kind of sentence he might get depended on where he was tried in the province and by which judge.

"Instead of spending $1,000 a case to put men behind bars for life," he said, "let's spend some money to carry out rehabilitation."

City prosecutor Stewart McMorran told the panel that a habitual criminal must be over the age of 18 and have been convicted of at least three criminal offences.

Magistrate Douglas Hume said habitual proceedings were not a conviction for a specific crime but a designation of a criminal's status.

George Street, chairman of the national parole board, said habitual criminals technically are never off parole. But after a number of years they no longer were given any special limits and need not report to police. He said of the 78 convicted as habit-uals in the last 15 years, 84 have been paroled and 24 are getting along well.

Colour Blindness

For thousands of years colours have been recognized, but it was only about 250 years ago that it was realized where colours come from. White light is a mixture of all colour together. When white light falls upon green grass all colours, except green, are absorbed by the grass and the green colour alone is reflected to the eye. So it is with all coloured objects. Actually it is not a colour but a definite wave length that is reflected to the eye and this wave length produces the sensation of colour in the brain.

Most people have no difficulty in distinguishing one colour from another, but approximately four per cent are unable to accurately distinguish between red and green or yellow and blue, when these colours are adjacent to one another. A few are totally colour blind and cannot recognize any colour—everything that they see is grey, white or black. It is important that every school child be tested for colour perception so that he may plan his studies in accordance with his visual abilities.

When your family is young ...

their security is completely in your hands. Here are two Confederation Life Plans that provide the help every young father needs:

Confederation Life's Whole Life Plan

This plan protects your family at very low cost—provides the amount of money you choose as a lump sum or monthly income, or both. It builds substantial cash values and earns profitable dividends. For instance, a $10,000 Whole Life Policy begun at age 25 will have a cash value at age 65 of $5,640. Dividends, if left to accumulate at current scales, would provide an additional $7,230. Together, a $12,870 return on an investment of about $6,100! A tidy profit—over and above the security it gives your family!

The Family Protection Benefit

This is an economical means of providing extra income for your family. You add it to a permanent insurance plan, usually for as long as your children are dependent on you. It increases the amount your basic policy would pay by $100, $200, or more, per month. The premiums are low. At age 25 for example, you can add $100 a month to your family's income for as little as $18.80 per year. You get maximum protection at the lowest possible cost.

Talk to your Confederation Life man. He'll show you how Confederation Life's insurance plans can provide money at any critical time of life. Phone him today.

Nature Rambles

By FREEMAN KING

IN A drive over the Humpback Road going by way of Goldstream, one can see many varieties of plants.

As you go towards the reservoir there is a mixed forest of Douglas Fir, Hemlock and Jack Pine mingled with Red Cedar. Each species stands out with its particular shade of green.

Here you also find the Hazel mixed with the Red Alder and the flowering Dogwood, which is now coming into bloom.

As you go round the bend at the reservoir you come upon the tumbling waters from the flume pouring into the lake.

Through the heavy forest area you can find the Yellow Violet and the Bleeding Heart growing in profusion.

Along by the Alder flats the Trillium and the Skunk Cabbage take over, giving bright color to the surroundings.

Along the high rocky cliffs and nestled in the little gullies are many beautiful gardens composed of Sea Blush, Blue Eyed Mary, Fringe Cup and lilies.

As you come out on the Sooke Road you find that the Gorse is taking over along the highway. Its golden blooms are attracting many bees and other insects in search of honey and pollen.

CIVIL RIGHTS FILIBUSTER

An Exercise in Nullification and Suicide

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THERE is indeed reason to worry about what may be developing in the relations between whites and Negroes. There are strong indications that there is an undercurrent of white resentment about the access of Negroes to housing and jobs in the North.

This feeling came to the surface in the vote for Gov. George Wallace in the Wisconsin primary. There are parallel indications of desperation and extremism among the Negroes, as in the proposal to stall the traffic at the World's Fair and to increase the New York water shortage by turning on the faucets to waste water.

There are manifestations of irreconcilability: by the whites of a refusal to redress the grievances of Negroes by legislation and by the Negroes of a desperation that is politically suicidal.

The whites who voted for Gov. Wallace were opposed to legal remedies for the grievances of the Negroes. The Negroes who are organizing the traffic jam are willing to affront the whole population because they have lost all faith that anything will be done for them by reason and goodwill.

It is clear that the internal peace of the nation is threatened and that the fearful possibility of race riots cannot be ignored. What, then, in all seriousness, is the right course?

Is it, as not only Governor Wallace but even Sen. Richard Russell is advocating, to close the door against laws designed to redress the grievances? Is this the wise course—leaving aside the question of whether it is the course of justice and compassion.

To close the door, saying that the Negro protest is the work of agitators and Communists, is to say that there can be no legal redress, that the two races must rub against each other without any legal criterion of right and wrong, of what is permissible and what is not. To advocate closing the door is to be for anarchy.

Surely it is the paramount duty of civilized Americans to make order prevail in the racial conflict by establishing the supremacy of law. It is true that harmony cannot be established by laws alone. But it is irrelevant. Peace can be made to prevail by faith in the guarantees of the Constitution and of the laws made under the Constitution.

If the preservation of order through the due processes of law is the course we must take, then we have to consider the filibuster in the Senate. This is an effort to prevent the federal government from reducing the racial conflict by the legal redress of certain of more conspicuous grievances of the Negro.

Can such a filibuster be justified? No more, it seems to me, than would be a filibuster in time of war. For the legal government must always have the power to secure the peace of the nation. If it hasn't that power, it isn't a government.

The filibuster is properly a device for delaying and preventing a passionate majority from overriding a defenceless minority. It cannot be justified morally as a device for preventing a majority from attempting to redress grievances which have been outlawed under the Constitution for nearly 100 years. Such a filibuster is not obedience to the Constitution and the laws. It is nullification.

What the country must have is a beginning in the lawful redress of the ancient grievances of Negroes. The essential thing is to make a serious beginning even if the legislation is not perfect, even if—as is certain—it will need a lot of perfecting as it is tried out in practice.

A filibuster which delays legislation for months to come, or even stops it entirely, will not only promote disorders, will not only subvert faith in the supremacy of law, but will most surely lead eventually to the destruction of the filibuster altogether.

That would be a pity. Our American liberties would lose one of their greatest safeguards if a temporary 51 per cent majority could prevail immediately and at any time. But if the filibuster is abused, as it will be if Congress is denied the right to legislate on civil rights, there will build up an irresistible demand for the abolition of all filibusters. ## Intimations of Higher Taxes

STRIPPED OF THE INTRICACIES of educational finance, Mr. Leslie Peterson's statement this week means one thing: municipal school taxes in Greater-Victoria are going up.

This was obvious from the plain admission that the government's financial contribution to the basic British Columbia educational program this year will be 52.51 per cent against the 53.24 it paid last year.

If this community can escape with an increase of little more than .73 per cent it may consider itself lucky.

The government is paying out more money this year than last, but not enough more to compensate for the rising costs of education.

The minister further says that because the home-owner's grant—"designed to relieve the burden of local school costs"—has been raised from $70 to $85 the additional $15 will avoid an actual boost in the taxes paid by the majority of home-owners. This may be so.

In effect it would mean that more of the overcharge on sales tax is being refunded by the government to some citizens—but not all—than has been the case previously.

Obviously, of course, this is paying off the home-owner-occupant with his own money.

But even if the amount which comes out of the current purse of the home-owner is reduced by the extra $15 the government returns, the mill rate for school purposes is not necessarily eased. Municipalities will have to increase the mill rate for that account to cover higher costs unless assessments have gone up so far that a boost in rate is unnecessary. The fact that the provincial basic levy has gone up about half a mill leaves little hope for the urban resident that higher assessments will make a rise in the mill rate unnecessary.

The image of the school board is not improved by the arrangements Mr. Peterson has announced. When the trustees in this community have completed their budget it is to be expected that they will have set a higher rate for school purposes. They'll be asking for more. Mr. Bennett may assume the posture of the benefactor distributing largesse as he hands back $15 more of the taxpayers' money, but it will be an obtuse taxpayer who doesn't recognize where it comes from.

Milestone In Moscow

MR. KHRUSHCHEV UNDERSTANDABLY soft-pedalled the Sino-Soviet quarrel on the occasion of his seventieth birthday yesterday. But Peking's greetings, with the assertion that the two countries' differences are only temporary; and the Soviet leader's pledge that he will always leave room for rapprochement and understanding with Red China, do not alter the basic situation.

That situation was more accurately summed up by Mr. Khrushchev's pre-birthday denunciation of the Red Chinese leaders by name, and by one Communist Chinese newspaper's birthday description of the Soviet leader as "a stupid fool."

The fact is, as news analysts on this page have pointed out in recent days, that the schism between the two countries has gone far beyond the matter of an ideological dispute. It is in reality a struggle for world power between two giants. In this light, Mr. Khrushchev's birthday must have been viewed more as a measure of how long he may be expected to remain at the Soviet helm, than as an occasion for friendly exchanges between neighbors.

Mr. Khrushchev himself observed that a man of his age has little time left. Attractive as that idea might be in Peking, it can only be contemplated with concern, even dismay, in the West. With a thought to the improved international situation and Mr. Khrushchev's personal achievement in helping to create it, Western countries must have had complete sincerity in wishing him many happy returns.

The Silent Yards

MOST VICTORIANS WILL feel that the latest failure to settle the shipyard dispute is a matter for great regret. The 10-week-long strike has already cost millions of dollars in lost contracts and wages, has seriously affected the construction and re-fit plans of the navy and commercial customers, and even threatens the future of the shipyard industry in British Columbia.

The results of this week's balloting on a settlement proposal offered by Deputy Minister of Labor William Sands, announced on Friday, leaves little doubt that most of the striking workers are adamantly determined not to accept anything less than a one-year contract with a 15-cent-an-hour wage increase. The Victoria workers, who voted 78.2 per cent against Mr. Sands' proposal, were not quite as solidly in favor of continuing the strike as were the North Vancouver workers, who voted 93-per cent against the proposal. But the sentiment in both cities is unmistakably in favor of continuing the strike despite the heavy toll it is taking of the workers' finances, the future of the industry and the well-being of the communities concerned.

The public interest is involved in this dispute, and some quarters express doubt that efforts at settlement have been as vigorous and whole-hearted on both sides as they should be. Both parties appear to be still sticking closely to their original positions, particularly with regard to the duration of the new contract. Unless there is a marked change in these attitudes there seems to be little hope of a settlement in the near future.

It is ironic that this prolonged labor dispute comes at a time when the local industry and unions have given their backing to a national campaign designed to convince Ottawa of the necessity of reviving a Canadian-built merchant marine through generous subsidy programs. This is backing which can hardly be taken seriously until the local yards and workers settle down to discuss their differences on a realistic basis.

An Increasing Problem

THE SERIOUS INCREASE IN illegitimate births in Greater Victoria cannot be glossed over as merely in keeping with the experience elsewhere. It demonstrates one inevitable effect of the whole process of deterioration which society is undergoing today.

In his report to the Family and Children's Service here, Mr. Gordon Wright, the executive director, notes that the past year saw a 50 per cent increase in counseling services affecting unmarried mothers, involving no less than 319 families. These services included help to girls who went elsewhere to have their children as well as to residents of other cities coming here. The record shows that nearly three illegitimate births a week took place in Victoria and it must be assumed that there were numerous other cases which were not referred to the local agency.

When it is considered that the average age of the unmarried mothers concerned is dropping each year, it becomes apparent that mere care for the unfortunate girls and their still more unfortunate offspring is not enough. There must be a more effective public approach to the whole problem—one which starts long before the doctor's office, the hospital or the adoption service is involved.

'Hurry, Hurry, Hurry . . .'

FOR TECHNICAL REASONS related to membership in the International Exhibition Bureau, Canada has no official entry in the New York World's Fair, opening Wednesday.

But obviously a flow of Canadians will set in across the border to enjoy fair-fun marking the 300th birthday of the host city. And Canadians will wish the New Yorkers well in this billion-dollar production—just as they will expect the good wishes and support of New Yorkers and their countrymen to be extended to Canada for Montreal's big show in 1967.

FROM OTTAWA

No Encouragement to Provinces to 'Contract Out'

THE PRIME Minister was at some pains this week to dispel the notion that the federal government will encourage provinces to exercise their option of "contracting out" of shared cost programs. It is one thing, as he pointed out, to recognize a right and quite another to favor its exercise.

Mr. Pearson noted that the objections to such programs arise not only from constitutional apprehensions but also from practical considerations. The initiative in these matters has commonly come from Ottawa and while provinces have been naturally reluctant to refuse federal assistance, there is a feeling, especially in Quebec, that the programs have the effect of imposing upon them spending priorities not of their choice.

This leads to resentment, particularly when consultation in the view of the province has been inadequate or a formality following the decision in Ottawa. But the business of "opting out" has obvious disadvantages. When it takes place, there always is a kind of patchwork result in the country as a whole in respect of the application of a program. Mr. Pearson made the further points that "opting out" does emphasize the sense of separation in our country in dealing with certain matters and that it increases the "scope for federal-provincial difference" over the relative advantages of participation or non-participation.

If "opting out" is not to involve double taxation (since the taxpayer under the old rules would pay his share of the general program in addition to supporting the provincial scheme), there must be arrangements for financial compensation. In his discussion of this point the Prime Minister used rather ambiguous language which, if not clarified, might lead to new controversies among the various governments.

After commenting on the advantages of shared programs, Mr. Pearson said: "Many of the disadvantages I have mentioned could be removed or reduced by the federal government working more closely with the provinces in the initiation and administration of programs. Perhaps the federal share of the cost could vary according to the fiscal capacity of the provinces participating."

While the first sentence is clear enough, the second would seem to be open to two interpretations. It might be construed to mean that if the rich provinces stayed out of a program, the federal government would be justified in paying a higher share (let us say, 75 instead of 50 per cent) to accommodate weaker provinces which might otherwise be reluctant to enter the argument. But this construction seems improbable for in such a case the richer provinces, expecting compensation, would have a strong incentive for non-participation. By staying out, they could extract more from Ottawa for themselves and for other governments as well.

The federal government could not welcome such an arrangement because, as Mr. Pearson said earlier, it does not wish to encourage provinces to exercise the course of option.

As matters now stand, and as the Prime Minister noted, the basis of shared programs is that every province pays the same proportionate share as every other province. Presumably, he had in mind a different system whereby shares would vary according to the "fiscal capacity" of the several participants. In other words, the principle of equalization would be extended to the shared cost programs.

All provinces nowadays pay lip service to the principle of equalization. But this is not to say that it is popular with the wealthier provinces. There is always controversy at federal-provincial meetings over the application of the principle. In Ontario particularly, it has always been regarded as a scheme for subsidizing one set of taxpayers at the expense of others.

There are, according to Mr. Pearson, about 60 shared cost programs. The difficulty is that if a weak province, for example, Prince Edward Island, could make out a case based on "fiscal capacity" for a high federal contribution with respect to one of these programs, it could presumably use precisely the same case in respect to all 60. Thus the extension of the principle of equalization to shared cost programs might be very expensive to the federal government. It would appear probable that it would also arouse new cries of outrage in the wealthier provinces which naturally offer the most lucrative fields for federal tax collectors.

Mr. Pearson's suggestion was, of course, purely tentative. But it will suggest interesting possibilities to some provinces and horrendous possibilities to others. No doubt we will hear a good deal about fair shares in shared programs at the next major federal-provincial parley.

DESPITE THE PRADO'S BAD LIGHT

Unbelievable Riches of a Legendary Collection

NOW I have had my say about the shortcomings of the Prado as a place in which to show pictures to the public—and this is a way of regarding galleries that is foreign to accepted notions in Europe, where display techniques like those of the Stedelijk in Amsterdam (or any good North American gallery) are exceptional—let me pay tribute to the unbelievable riches of this legendary collection.

To begin with, nobody who has not been to the Prado can have any idea of the real contribution of Spain to Western painting. The fifty works of Velasquez on view include all his greatest paintings; the 34 El Greco contain all that is necessary to give the viewer a comprehensive notion of this highly individual genius's work, though a trip to Toledo and to the Metropolitan in New York is necessary before you can say you have seen all his best painting; the 138 Goyas I have already referred to are all you need to know about Goya; and if you are still aching to see paintings by Ribera, Zurbarán and Burillo after some time in the Prado then you are a hard man to satisfy indeed.

But Spanish painting apart, the international ramifications of the Hapsburg dynasty have ensured a remarkable collection of Flemish and Dutch art, and the personal predilection of Charles V for the work of Titian led to the acquisition of over a score of masterpieces from the hand of this great master, including the wonderful self-portrait painted when he was, by any reckoning, an octogenarian.

Patricia May O'Neil, translator into "English" of the official guide, is at her best with Titian. This room contains "the richest glories to come from his brush, as much regarding religious paintings as bellicose, portrait, allegorical, mythological, and every kind of manifestations that can be attained by a multiple temperament." (Sic, sic, sic.)

Of the eight splendid Raphaels, some are from the collection of Charles I of England. The Guide says of Raphael that "he gifted his frescoes with an unlimited profundity, and as a play he resolved the foreshortenings giving to them an unknown arrangement." And of his love life it mentions his affection for "Fornarina, a Transverre girl baker to whom he abandoned with a strength that he lacked." Surmising up his work the Guide produces a remarkable judgment: "In the comparison of his work one may say that it was a superman world created by an adolescent."

It is unfortunate that the connection of the House of Aragon with Italy did not lead to the purchase of any early Italian painting by the royal collectors, but Queen Isabella, friend of Columbus, indulged a whim for early Flemish painting which resulted in the acquisition of outstanding masterpieces by Van der Weyden and Memling, Robert Campin and Gerard David, Dirck Bouts and Petrus Christus.

Philip II and his daughter Isabella Clara Eugenia, regent of the Netherlands, were admirers of Hieronymus Bosch (El Bosco as the Spaniards call him), and of old Peter Brueghel and Joachim Patinir. I share their interest in these highly idiosyncratic painters, and have been to some pains to round up all their accessible works on this trip, so the Flemish rooms of the Prado were an important capture for me.

The landscapes in the Patinirs were, some of the best I have ever seen of his; the Brueghel "Triumph of Death" ranks with the best of old Peter's work in the Kunsthistorisches Museum in Vienna; and the severe works by Bosch hung in the Prado represent the most important grouping of his work in existence anywhere.

The gem of the Bosch collection—and the greatest work by this skilful hand and feverish fancy still extant—is the large triptych called "The Garden of Delights," which by itself made the trip to Madrid worthwhile. The effect of this astonishing painting you may judge from the remarks in the Guide: "Any machine of modern creation, any conceptions as hallucinant and absurd as they could seem, have already their precedent in this triptych multitudinaire, with a richness of miniature nudes completely without precedent." Well, almost completely, let's say.

The Prado has nothing much else, unless you want to count a magnificent Fra Angelico, Durer's "self-portrait" which comes between the Louvre one and the example in Munich, in point of time, and his famous paintings of Adam and Eve; half a dozen Poussins of the highest quality, and rather more Claudes; a large room full of Veroneses and another hung with Tintoretto's; and about fifty great canvases by Rubens, not to mention scores by Jordaens, Van Dyck and others who worked in Rubens's workshop.

No museum in the world has a more impressive collection of portraits by the world's greatest masters of this mode, and of them all I find myself remembering, most vividly the portrait of Mary Tudor by Antonio Moro, which reveals more about her than you will find in a library of scholarly works. You may have to pay several visits to get the light in the right place to see the paintings in the Prado, but the reward is immensely worth the exertion.

National Gallery's Keeper of Prints Is a Sorceress

As mentioned last week, the current exhibition of Recent Acquisitions of Prints and Drawings from the National Gallery of Canada is on view at Victoria Art Gallery and will close on April 25th.

Whether the entire collection will remain on view I am unable to say because the gallery is Williamson being prepared for the jury show and Arthur Gresham's landscapes and portraits go on exhibition this coming Tuesday.

Even so, during the next few days you should be able to see at least part of this splendid collection on loan from Ottawa, and if I devote part of today's column to the subject it is on account of personal prejudice. Prints and drawings have always been a weakness of mine (or should I write strength?), and I like to thump my tub on their behalf whenever the opportunity occurs.

Anybody who has ever browsed in the prints and drawings section of the British Museum will sympathize with my feelings.

It is our good fortune in Canada to have Miss Kathleen Fenwick as keeper of prints and drawings at the National Gallery, and while one is loathe to use the word witchcraft in her connection, it would seem that Miss Fenwick must indeed indulge in incantations and other forms of magic, for how otherwise could her search for these elusive and rare masterpieces be so successful?

A mint condition print is as hard to find, these days, as any old masterpiece in painting. A knowledge of papers, watermarks, inks, techniques and styles must still be resolved within the total knowledge of aesthetics if the highest quality of collecting is to be attained.

In addition, a connoisseur such as Miss Fenwick must have an extensive knowledge of history in order to recognize the national characteristics in styles and ideas which change from century to century.

This is the sixth such touring exhibition of prints and drawings circulated by the National Gallery of Canada, and it is first class.

Peter van der Heyden's engraving of "The Last Judgment" after Brueghel and John Raphael Smith's mezzotint portrait after Reynolds, of "Margaret, Lady Beaumont," 16th and 18th century works, respectively, are perfect examples of what one means by mint condition prints, as well as being fascinating objects to look at.

So also is the 17th century view of "The Piazza in Covent Garden" by Wenzel Hollar, an outstanding work when we consider its basic topographical nature and the freshness of its light, harmonious line.

Of the 19th century, represented by Lautrec and Manet, surely Manet's "Le Gamin" is one of the finest examples of impressionist lithography? A truly notable work.

Victorians will be pleased to see Ann Kipling's woodcut, "Fish," hanging in such company as Feininger and Vlaminck, whose own woodcuts (especially Vlaminck's "Saint-Adrien") are perfect examples of this seemingly simple technique.

Of the five drawings circulated in this show, I call your attention to Molly Bobak's study of "Oslo" and Tony Uquhart's "Summer Land."

For those readers who collect paperbacks, and who wish to have a readily available authority on engraving and etching, Arthur M. Hind's standard reference work has now been published by Dover. Previously available in an expensive two-volume edition, his "History of Engraving and Etching from the 15th Century to 1914" is a wonderful buy.

And here I must mention what I consider to be one of the most useful paperbacks published in recent years, "Synthetic Painting Media" by Lawrence N. Jensen, who is associate professor of art and department chairman at Castleton State College, Vermont.

This book, just published by Prentice-Hall Inc., and available through your local bookseller, lists traditional media and practices before discussing synthetics used today.

Polymer Tempera, Pyroxilin, Fiberglass supports, Ethyl Silicate and Vinyl Acetate come up for discussion in illustrated, highly practical chapters, to which Professor Jensen has added his most useful compilation of sources of materials, plus bibliography.

With the disastrous consequences, not only aesthetic, arising from ignorant usage of so many 20th century synthetic media, it would seem to me that no contemporary artist can afford to be without this reference work.

This book is so factual and straightforward, based as it is on practical experiments, that I cannot recommend it strongly enough. Much of the material recorded is available nowhere else. Students and practicing artists alike will find this paperback one of the wisest investments they can make.

Those patrons of art who have seen their purchases disintegrate on the walls through chemical conflict will now have the satisfaction of proving, yet again, that an ignorance of chemistry is no excuse!

Change Was Slow to Come In the 19th Century Army

"Gentlemen, there have been great changes in my time—great changes. But I can say this. Every change has been made at the right time, and the right time is when you cannot help it."

So spoke Field Marshal the Duke of Cambridge shortly before he retired from a position he held for 39 years—Commander-in-Chief of the British Army.

George, Duke of Cambridge, was born four years after the Battle of Waterloo, and died 10 years before the outbreak of the First World War. In 1842, at the age of 23, he became colonel of the 17th Lancers.

It was an age when army commissions were purchased, and no doubt being a royal duke and the cousin of the Queen had something to do with his promotion to a major-general at 27 and, a few years later, his becoming Inspector of Cavalry.

In the latter position, despite the fact that later his name was linked with ultra-conservatism in military affairs, he suggested various reforms, among them that the army should practice annual field manoeuvres. The first of these since Waterloo was held in 1853, only a year before the outbreak of the Crimean War.

The Duke served as a divisional commander for a short period in the Crimea, earning himself a reputation for bravery under fire and for the care he took of his men.

But conditions in the Crimea were not his cup of tea, and he was more than happy to return to England on sick leave. At war's end, he was appointed Officer Commander-in-Chief of

Seattle Author To Speak On Shakespeare

Victoria branch of the English-Speaking Union will commemorate Shakespeare's 400th birthday Thursday, April 23, which is also St. George's Day. The branch has invited Seattle author Dr. Sophus K. Winther to address a special centennial meeting in the War Amputees' Hall at 8 p.m.

The subject of his address will be "The Uncertain Glory of an April Day," a line from Shakespeare's Two Gentlemen of Verona.

Dr. Winther has taught in the English department of the University of Washington for 40 years. A trilogy of his novels, widely read in the United States, has been translated into both Swedish and Danish and has been acclaimed in many Scandinavian countries.

Prof. George Brand, president of the Victoria branch, ESU, will open the meeting.

THE ROYAL GEORGE by Giles St. Aubyn. Longmans, 1963, 386 pages, illustrated, index, bibliography, $7.75.

Reviewed by R. H. Roy

The army he commanded in mid-century was in vast need of reform. An army private was paid three pence a day. Flogging and branding were still used to discipline the troops.

Sanitation in army quarters was so bad that, in peacetime, the death rate among the soldiers was four times that of the civilian population.

Change was long overdue, and although it came slowly and haltingly, "the royal George" was by no means among the forefront of the reformers.

This biography of the Duke of Cambridge throws a fascinating light not only on the duke as an army commander, but also on English Society and the Court in the 19th century.

There is a considerable amount of chit-chat and gossip, and sometimes too frequent quotations from diaries of members of the royal circle.

But marching through the pages, his loud, German-accented voice booming, comes the portly figure of the Duke of Cambridge himself, his mutton-chop whiskers bristling, his eye alert for change, and his mind fixed on the Crimea.

It is a well written, well documented book, with an interest all its own.

appeal of his work is open to question.

This is not a book to keep you up all night; on the other hand, it can be opened at random and enjoyed. An excellent volume to adorn the bedside table in your guest-room.

As the author explains in his opening chapter, The Rocks Remain is a sequel to his preceding success Ring of Bright Water, and he observes that the book, "though a true sequel to its precursor, will have little of its flavor"; this reviewer feels, however, that perhaps this volume would have greater appeal to one who has read the earlier story.

Mr. Maxwell appears to be one of those fortunate people who can move at will to interesting places about the world and take his readers with him. He describes an earthquake in North Africa, life in a cottage on an island in the West Highlands, the antics and problems of the tame otters he maintains there, the wreck of his cabin cruiser, and adventures in Spain, Majorca and Morocco.

The book is by no means one of those which you can lay aside only when finished. But Mr. Maxwell is an excellent descriptive writer who decorates his narrative at times with some delightful touches of humor.

BOOKS and BOOKMEN

By DONALD STAINSBY

It seems impossible to avoid the idiocies of censorship these days. They are forever popping up. Most recently, of course, is the banning in Alberta and Saskatchewan of Tom Jones, a film which has won a number of academy awards.

While the winning of academy awards is no guarantee of quality, the fact that a film which has gained such distinction can be banned in the Canadian backwoods does add a smattering of piquancy to this particular piece of censorship. And it becomes a matter of special moment when the film which has been thus twice distinguished—with Oscars in Hollywood and proscription on the prairies—is based on a book that is generally considered to be the very cornerstone of the English novel.

Tom Jones the film derives from a very long novel called The History of Tom Jones, A Foundling. It was written by Henry Fielding and published in 1749. It stands in relation to English literature at least to the English novel—much as Don Quixote does to Spanish. It is the fountainhead, the beginning masterpiece which set the whole form rolling with a momentum that still continues.

It is only a wonder that it was not long turned into a motion picture. For quite apart from anything else it is a first rate piece of story-telling.

It is very much 18th century, of course, in its length, in the freedom with which the author stops to talk about himself directly to the reader, while his characters stand around impatiently waiting for the camera to focus on them again. This sort of thing just isn't tolerated today, and I sometimes think a lot of modern reading would be more enjoyable if it were.

Tom Jones is a rather large slice of 18th century life, and its author knew well whereof he wrote. Among other pursuits he was a magistrate, so that when he writes about bawds and scoundrels he does so with authority.

The early 18th century was not a delicate time, and country squires were not exactly milktoasts. Fair maidens and haystacks tended to add up to a logical sum in their minds. Fielding writes of this time with honesty and a great good humor.

It is a rollicking romp through a hearty countryside as Tom Jones the founding—destined for great things, of course—strides through the 18 "books" of his story.

Fair maidens fall victim to all manner of fates, even worse than death! Ale is drunk, virtue is displayed, maltreated and rewarded, evil seems to triumph, heads are knocked. It's all a giggle, a good healthy lark.

I have not had the fortune yet to see in its entirety Tom Jones as it appears on the screen, but the bits and snatches I have seen, and the reviews and comments I have read, suggest that this massive work has been ably and aptly translated. I'm all atwitter to see it.

And I am thankful that I live in the relatively enlightened province of British Columbia, so that I may have the opportunity to do so. I'm sure I would break out into apoplexy if I lived in Alberta or Saskatchewan, where the censors have banned it.

I wonder, have they taken it off the university reading lists, too? Are their minions even now out scouring the book stores to confiscate copies of it? Will they be keeping a close eye on the newstands to ensure that Tom Jones does not appear in a cheap edition? (Penny Hill, we are told, might have made it if she had had the decency to come out in an expensive edition first, instead of paperback.)

For once, here is a case of censorship that is raw and naked in its lunacy. Tom Jones, book or movie, is no Fanny Hill, no Lady Chatterley, no Tropic of Cancer, that is difficult to defend without getting involved in impossible arguments as to what is and is not hard-core pornography. It is a good wholesome book, made all the more palatable by being vastly comic. The motion picture appears to be a faithful representation of it.

Yet there are those who have banned the movie version.

I make no apologies about arguing in a book column against this motion picture censorship in other jurisdictions. For censorship anywhere is an evil that must be trod on hard.

The presence of censorship is a malignancy. While censors exist, what is banned in Saskatchewan today can be banned in P.C. tomorrow. If an official film censor doesn't do it, a vigilante group of Parent-Teacher Association mothers might.

And to those who think the prairie censors have done a good job—and they will exist here—may I suggest that they take the time to read the novel? If they will do so, I'm sure that they will hear the raucous hoots as Squire Western and Tom Jones laugh in the faces of those who think them evil.

But then, alas, they might not. Censors are like that.

Making of a Nation Fascinating Story

THE AGE OF CHIVALRY, by Sir Arthur Bryant; Collins, $7.25. Reviewed by R. J. Bishop, University of Victoria.

Years ago G. M. Trevelyan wrote of Arthur Bryant that "for years past he has done good service by helping sound history to win for itself a very wide public by the aid of literature."

Anyone who has revelled in Bryant's Life of Pepsys, in his Charles II, who has read his English Saga or his Age of Elegance knows exactly what Trevelyan meant. In Bryant there is the charm of style, the sweep of event, the power of organization, and the imaginative insight that one expects of the great writer and the great historian.

In The Age of Chivalry, the second volume of his Story of England, Sir Arthur once more casts his spell over the reader. Taking the period from the return from crusade of Edward I in 1274 to the Peasants' Revolt in 1381, Bryant shows the interplay of forces that made the English nation.

As one reads one realizes how great a part chance and disaster had in building English institutions and English history. He also shows how delicately human affairs can be directed for good or ill by great personalities, and how what has been an advantage can, through the twist of circumstances, become a disadvantage.

This book is full of the ebb and flow of life; it is fascinating; one hates to come to the last page.

The Sounding Board

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

From time to time someone who probably regards me as an odd and rather sadistic character, asks me rather pointedly if I enjoy my job.

The inference is that either I don't, which accounts for my crabbiness, or that I do because being a proper one (crab, that is) I like to be employed at crabbing.

These conclusions I believe and hope are erroneous. Surely a real crab would feel like a crab, and I don't. Except sometimes. Those times when I have been grievously irritated by indefensibly sloppy, ill-prepared performances by people who should know better.

And when I encountered smug conceit and total lack of humility in people who regard themselves as artists.

My considered answer to the question is that I would not be doing it if I didn't find it generally satisfying; that it certainly has its low moments when I would like to be a thousand miles away on a desert island, but that it just as certainly has its peaks and these more than compensate for the hum-drum patches and the bogs.

One of the peaks occurred last Monday night and its soaring effect helped to carry me through a week crowded with the burning of candles at both ends.

Uvic Chosen for CBC Recital

I was privileged to be one of a couple of hundred people, mostly members of the university community, present in the Student Union Building at Gordon Head, when Maureen Forrester, with John Newmark, appeared in recital.

The great Canadian contralto and her superb accompanist were presented by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, in association with the University of Victoria.

It was one of the celebrity concert series arranged by CBC for audiences at Canadian universities and was recorded for broadcasting at a later date.

In the course of a season's concert-going one hears a good deal of fine music, often performed with considerable technical fluency, less often with any outstanding artistic comprehension.

But to hear musicians of such superlative artistry combine in a full recital even once in a year, makes the whole business of being a music critic with its episodes of tedium and its inevitable dol-drum, worth the price.

Miss Forrester's magnificent resonant contralto, every note perfectly placed from end to end of her impressive range, the production smooth as satin is an instrument controlled by an outstanding musical intelligence.

Such a musician possessed of such a voice is an exact parallel to a great master performing on a matchless Stradivarius.

Keyboard Artistry Perfect Match

Her program was perfection from the point of view of balance and contrast. Two Handel airs, Praise Be to God and Spring Is Coming and the Gluck aria, Che faro, followed by Schumann's Frauenliebe und Leben.

There was also a Samuel Barber suite, Melodies Passagères, a modern English language group and Dvorak's Zigeunerlieder (Gypsy Songs). Lovely phrasing and the most sensitive coloration appeared throughout and was always matched by Newmark's keyboard artistry, so completely in accord dynamically and interpretively that each instrument illumined and at the same time, complimented the other.

John Newmark came to Canada in 1942 from a brilliant career as a pianist in Europe. Now considered one of the finest accompanists and chamber music artists in Canada, he lives in Montreal, is often heard in CBC recitals.

The Schumann cycle was, I think on looking back, my favorite. Miss Forrester's treatment of the moods of tender reminiscence of loneliness, nostalgia and remembered joys was poignant without cloy, possessed genuine sentiment in the poetic German vein, and that quiet simplicity of age.

One felt too, in the Barber suite, that each of the five songs crystallized its individual thought with exquisite clarity and perfection of detail.

They were like fine miniatures suspended on the silken ribbon of the singer's pure and effortless production.

The main lounge of the Student Union Building may not be an ideal place from a singer's viewpoint, due to low ceiling areas. On the other hand it is ideal in its pleasing proportions charming contemporary design and decor and restful, muted color.

And though Miss Forrester's voice is a powerful one, she is, nevertheless, without doubt the ideal chamber artist by virtue of the technical control that makes her mistress of the most delicate shadings and by her finely etched interpretations.

Her presence has a regality that gives her sufficient detachment from the closely surrounding audience, and at the same time emanates a warmth and ease that enhances the intimacy of such an occasion.

Fonteyn, Nuruyev Stars in Film

Another thrilling experience for balletomanes is indicated in the forthcoming showing of the latest in a fabulous series of filmings of the art.

This one, entitled An Evening with the Royal Ballet, is to be premiered in Victoria, Monday, April 27 at 8:30 p.m. at the Odeon Theatre.

Sponsoring this premiere will be the Victoria Symphony Society Women's Committee. Four full ballets are seen in the course of the technicolor production and starring for the first time together on film are Margot Fonteyn and Rudolph Nureyev.

Filmed at the Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, London, the ballets are Le Corsaire, Les Sylphides, Aurora's Wedding and La Valse.

For the Monday premiere pupils of Wynne Shaw will add a note of living decor to the foys of the theatre with ballet tableaux.

Victoria Theatre Guild scored a distinct success with the first of eight performances of Rashomon Gate at the Langham Court Theatre Friday night.

This is a difficult play to handle—a macabre study based on stories by the Japanese writer Ryunosuke Akutagawa—and the intricate theme calls for unusual staging and lighting effects, good timing and resilient acting.

General theme of the story, as it has been adapted to the Western stage by Fay and Michael Kanin, is that people see what they want to see and say what they want others to hear.

A murder is committed in Kyoto, Japan, about 1,000 years ago, and the circumstances, as they are seen by different witnesses, are presented in a series of vivid flash backs.

This is a favorite device of the modern movie, and the Theatre Guild had the difficult task of adapting it to the stage. Overall, they succeeded. The action flagged a little in places, but the staging and lighting were excellent and the general standard of acting was good.

Robert A. Price took on the arduous job of directing the play and performing the lead role of a bandit who is charged in court with murdering a Japanese nobleman after raping his wife.

His performance was somewhat over-dramatic, but conformed to the role of savage egoist who could not resist a beautiful woman, yet had elements of chivalry.

Vanessa Lax was admirably versatile in the role of the murdered man's wife, required to re-enact her part in the murder as it is told by various witnesses.

Douglas Blagrove seemed rather passive in the role of the murdered man, but this might be in keeping with the story, since he was tied to a bamboo shoot every time it was re-told.

John Dreen's interpretation of the Japanese priest might be a little western, yet he delivered his lines with a pleasing eloquence.

As producer and stage manager, Bert Farr deserves a large share of the applause given by Friday's first-night audience.

Credit should also be given to Robert de Castro as set designer, Alex MacKenzie for the lighting effects and to Dave Foster, Peter Bell, Gladys Higgins, Frank Conibear, Douglas Blagrove and Mr. de Castro, for set construction and painting.

Gay Comedy Opens Run Monday

This coming week, St. Matthias' Little Theatre audiences will probably be holding their sides over performances of one of the funniest plays of the year.

At the helm is conductor-arranger Robert De Cormier who is far-famed through his previous association with the highly successful Belafonte Folk Singers which presently sold out tours of 90 cities in the past two seasons.

Mr. De Cormier gained international fame through his work as conductor and arranger for the fabulous Harry Belafonte on his recording dates as well as personal appearances.

Three years ago Mr. De Cormier with Belafonte's blessing and help took over as conductor-arranger of the Belafonte Folk Singers on their tours and in recordings for RCA Victor.

The formation of the De Cormier Folk Singers is a natural outgrowth of the success this dynamic musical figure has carved in the world of folk music.

Robert De Cormier is a graduate of the Juillard School of Music in New York City and has proven himself to be a most versatile as well as outstanding musician.

As a composer he has been represented on and off Broadway. "The World of Sholem Aleichm" and the Kermit Bloomgarden Broadway production of "The Wall" both had fine original scores written by De Cormier.

As a recording artist in addition to Belafonte's RCA Victor records, and The Belafonte Folk Singers, De Cormier gained recognition for his outstanding choral settings and background to Charlton Heston's "The Ten Commandments" and "The Ten Commandments: The Musical." Theatre goers also recall the wonderful choral arrangements in the Broadway production of "Happiest Girl in Town" starring Cyril Ritchard and for the current Broadway musical his "Milk and Honey."

Joining Mr. De Cormier is David Thimar who for two seasons was responsible for the magnificent staging of the Belafonte group.

Mr. Thimar's continued association with De Cormier guarantees the repeated effective portrayal of the folk cultures of all countries in a fusion of movement and music.

Outlook Good for Trade With Red China

By ALAN DONNELLY
OTTAWA (CP)—Communist China should remain a significant market for Canadian wheat "in the foreseeable future," says Daniel Molgat.

Victoria Daily Times 9
SAT., APRIL 18, 1964

Canadian trade commissioner in Hong Kong. He also sees "substantial sales prospects" in other fields as a result of a shift in Chinese import buying away from Soviet Russia, provided China can earn enough foreign exchange by its exports to the Western world.

Mr. Molgat outlines these prospects in the current issue of the trade department's magazine, Foreign Trade.

In a companion article, R. K. Thomson, senior Canadian trade commissioner in Hong Kong, lists some possible sales prospects for Canada.

They include fertilizer, insecticides and farm equipment in view of China's emphasis on bolstering farm output, metals, chemicals, diesel engines, auto parts, machine tools and equipment for mining, communications and food processing.

BUSINESS VIEWS

New Oil Play Possible for B.C.

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

In a recent talk in Calgary on development of the Athabasca oil sands and their impact on Canadian crude oil marketing, Imperial Oil Ltd. executive F. K. Spragins had this to say about British Columbia's place in the oil picture:

"After approximately 15 years of aggressive exploratory effort in northeastern B.C. a relatively small amount of oil has been discovered. With the exception of a limited post-Devonian play in the southern part of the prospective area, most of northeastern B.C. appears to be gas-prone. Within the foreseeable future I believe that B.C. oil production will not have any more than a modest increase and will not be a significant factor in the supplemental picture for conventional Alberta oil."

Is the picture really as gloomy as Mr. Spragins and the geologists of several other major oil companies paint it? When Boundary Lake and the smaller fields in the Fort St. John area have produced all the oil of which they are capable, will B.C. resume its dependence on Alberta for its oil needs?

Ironically, Mr. Spragins' own company, Imperial Oil, may answer those questions in the negative as a result of wildcat operations in Alberta at Zama Lake, about 20 miles from the B.C. border and almost due east of B.C.'s Koto Lake gas field.

Recent reports indicate that two Imperial wildcats as well as several wells drilled by other companies in the same area have struck oil in the Slave Point horizon of the Devonian structure. It is this same horizon which extends broadly into B.C. which has previously been labelled by Imperial and others as "gas-prone" and which has been used as the argument for saying that further extensive B.C. oil strikes are unlikely.

Confirmation of the Zama Lake area wildcats as Slave Point oil producers will pretty well explode the "gas-prone" theory for the northeast corner of B.C. and could touch off a big new oil play in the province. These wells will also, incidentally, move Alberta oil production to the northernmost point yet.

Metropolitan Stores of Canada Ltd. increased earnings by 12 per cent last year, according to the annual report.

Net earnings for the year ended Jan. 31 were $723,393 against $646,367. The preferred shares earned $4.82 and after deduction of preferred dividends the common earned 62 cents.

Since the chain became Canadian owned three years ago, a total of 22 stores—including the one in Victoria—have been modernized and another two years will see the completion of the modernization program.

Webb and Knapp Canada Ltd. plans to dispose of some of its B.C. land holdings as part of a program of liquidating undeveloped property in order to conserve cash and to retain more valuable long-term investments, president James A. Soden said in the annual report.

The company had a net loss of $4,520,414 in 1963 compared with a loss of $1,263,532 the previous year despite a slight rise in operating revenue to $4,350,800.

One major difficulty had been the fact that the Lake City industrial park holding in Burnaby "has not produced the results expected for it... because of a downturn in industrial development in B.C. There has been improvement in the position in 1963 and it can be expected that this will continue in 1964."

STAMP CORNER

By REG. NAIRNE

New Zealand's new 3s. value which on April 1st superseded the previous 2s. value, is quite a gay bird, being printed in blue, yellow, green, and deep green. At first sight the same design has been used for both, but if you carefully compare the two stamps you will easily discern minor variations in the drawing.

Post offices in N.Z. generally have counter vending-machines which automatically dispense stamps when fed suitable coins. The stamps used in these appliances are of the coil type.

A recent value to be made

JOIN THE CHAIN GANG?

Now hear this! We have six pieces of chain containing five links each. We want to join the pieces to form a circle. We want to do this in the shortest possible time and with the least amount of work. If it takes one minute to open a link; and one minute to close a link, in how few minutes is it possible to complete the circle?

CHRISTMAS STAMPS

Later on in the year another annual philatelic feature will appear. This will be the special Christmas stamp.

Instead of a Nativity painting which has formed the design on the last four Christmas stamps of N.Z. it is proposed to feature a picture of the first Christmas ceremony in the Islands, which was conducted by the Rev. Samuel Marsden in 1814. This year marks the sesqui-centennial of the event.

This reminds us that Canada is to issue its first Christmas stamp this year. Other countries which now have special issues for the Christmas season are Australia, Norfolk Is., and the U.S.A.

Ghastly Figures?

A couple of visiting ghosts found the mysterious markings above on the wall of an unfamiliar old castle. "Maybe it's a ghost deterrent," said one. "Are you out of your cotton-pickin' bed sheet?" countered the other. "It's simply a problem in multiplication. Let's see if we can solve it."

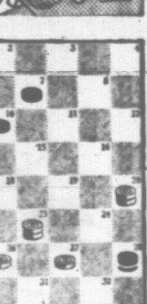

Surprisingly, each of the ghosts saw through the missing figures with ease. And doubly surprising, each came up with a different answer—both correct. Just for fun, see if you can puzzle out at least one of the answers found by the ghosts.

WORD GETS AROUND

If you have any doubts about how quickly gossip gets around, this should dispel them. Suppose two people each repeat some gossip to two friends within 15 minutes from the time they heard it; that these four in turn each repeat it to two others within 15 minutes, etc.

At the end of 90 minutes' time, how many persons will know it?

MOVE

Here is a good test of your skill at checkers. White, moving up the board, moves first and wins in five moves. How does he do it?

SCALE THE TREES?

Ten-year-old John and his younger brother, Billy, are contemplating climbing two trees growing in their yard. One tree is three times taller than the other. Half the height of the shorter tree is 20 feet less than the height of the taller tree. What is the height of each tree?

BEES IN BONNET? LET'S SEE

Hive A has ten more bees than hive B. B has 20 more than C. C has 30 more than D.

If hive D houses 215 bees, how many bees are there in all four hives?

Warning: figure wisely or you may get stung.

Court Told of Street Fight

what now, graduate?

If you have the aptitude and interest to carry on to further academic study, optometry could be the career for you. An optometrist is a vision specialist. Optometrists are respected members of their communities, and their income is in line with their responsibilities. It's a young profession you might well consider.

B.C. ASSOCIATION OF OPTOMETRISTS

He said the man said to them "What are you punks looking for; trouble or something?" He said Johnson hit him but only after the man had first grabbed Johnson.

Haldane said he, Johnson and the other youths then went to Johnson Street where he hit a fellow he saw standing on the sidewalk outside the Olympic Hotel.

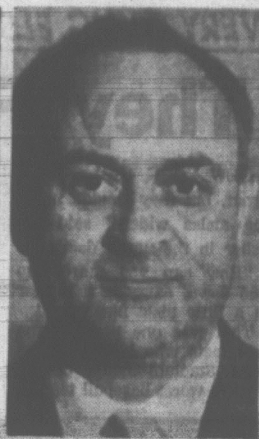

Haldane said: "He went down. . . I kicked this guy once." But he said he didn't see Johnson attack anyone on Johnson Street.

The trial was adjourned.

Chiefs and POs Don Gold Braid

Thirty-one chief petty-officers have completed a limited duty officers qualifying course at HMCS Naden, and are now commissioned officers.

Nine city men are among them. They are: S. D. Bryant, 1134 Esquimalt; H. L. Clarkson, 1215 Montrose; R. C. Duiven, 3922 St. Peter's; R. W. Gardiner, 1685 Warren Gardens; F. W. Holye, 3185 Kingsley; L. W. Larson, 155 Ganges Crescent; O. K. MacLean, 51 Gorge West; C. W. Mueller, 2780 Fifth; J. E. Wright, 1723 Richardson.

AUCTIONEER Friday in aid of Alberni Valley flood victims for one sale—was Highway Minister Philip A. Gagliardi. He knocked down a camera for $40, added $40 from his own pocket to help boost auction total for night to $8,000.

Billy First To Register For Y Camp

Nine-year-old Billy Sherwood is of age now to attend the YM-YWCA Camp Thunderbird and he is making sure there will be space for him . . .

He was first to register this year.

Billy had his first taste of camping last summer when he attended a weekend Cub camp. Now he is looking forward to spending two weeks with 96 other boys as they learn to swim, boat and camp out in the Sooke Hills around Gliz Lake.

This is the first year for Camp Thunderbird to operate on a two-week basis, and Billy's mother, Mrs. A. E. Sherwood, is all for it. "At a one-week camp the boys hardly get to know one another before it is time to go home; two weeks is much better," she said.

STAFF READY
YMCA youth director George Warren said today counsellors and senior staff members have already been chosen and counselling sessions at the camp are underway. Weekend training sessions in boating, campcraft and archery will start in June.

Camp brochures and registration forms are now available at the YMCA.

Increase Seen In Tourist Trade

Victoria can expect more tourists this year than in 1963, the Victoria Chamber of Commerce was told Friday.

Chamber director Pat Frumento was reporting back after a 2,975-mile journey through California with a travelling publicity show.

With Dominion Hotel manager W. T. Clark, he made 48 calls and presented a slide show to six groups of travel and tour people.

UP 10 PER CENT
During his visit, Mr. Frumento heard enough to convince him last year's number of tourists will increase from 10 to 15 per cent.

"Many of these will be the 'small tourists' who don't travel by auto. They come by bus and trains and similar ways."

This trend, he said, can be expected to continue during the next few years.

The group tours are really being developed by the transportation companies and by the travel agencies, he said.

SLIDE SHOW
The slide show, reproduced Friday for directors, featured bright scenes of Victoria, the Island highlights, and ferry

Now persons employed in every walk of life are making application for a Social Insurance Number!

SOCIAL INSURANCE NUMBER

Name JOHN SMITH

John Smith

NUMERO D'ASSURANCE SOCIALE

Nom JOHN SMITH

Your government is issuing Social Insurance Number Cards in place of the unemployment insurance numbers that most employed people have had until now. The new numbers will help government to use modern office methods for greater efficiency in handling unemployment insurance, and also other social benefits such as proposed pension plans.

For these reasons, you are invited to apply for a Social Insurance Number, even if you are not a contributor to the unemployment insurance plan. Here's what you do:—

IF YOU ARE AN EMPLOYEE: Your employer will give you an application form for a Social Insurance Number. You can help most by completing it promptly and accurately and returning the form to your employer. He will send it to the nearest office of the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

IF YOU ARE UNEMPLOYED: If you are receiving unemployment insurance benefit you will complete an application form for a Social Insurance Number when you report to the U.I.C. in person or by mail.

IF YOU ARE AN EMPLOYER: If you are an employer registered with the Unemployment Insurance Commission—you will automatically receive application forms. You are asked to distribute them to your employees; have them completed and signed by each employee and returned promptly together, not individually, to the local office of the Commission.

If you are an employer who is not registered with the Unemployment Insurance Commission—please get in touch with your local Unemployment Insurance Commission office and inform them how many employees you have. The Unemployment Insurance Commission office will then send you application forms for each of your employees to complete. When all forms have been completed, you will return them to the Unemployment Insurance Commission. Your employees' Social Insurance Number Cards will be sent to you for distribution to them.

Your government asks for your co-operation in introducing the new numbers as quickly as possible. Apply for your SOCIAL INSURANCE NUMBER NOW.

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

There are people in this village, purists who sop up National Hockey League statistics and other sheski-bob, who have your correspondent figured a horse-lover.

The plea here is not guilty. The defence is the same taken by James Thurber when someone accused him of being a dog-lover. Not so, said Mr. Thurber. A dog-lover, he said grandly, is one dog who loves another dog.

For the record, the opinion here is that horses are animals which a fellow can like and admire and have fun betting on or just watching. This is no knock at love, which is for blondes.

With that established, let's talk about Barry McGillivray. It's not as easy as all that. You have to catch him first.

At the Sandown palace of pleasure, where turf fanciers are fooling up their horsepower for the opening of the get-rich-quick season (Exhibition Park, Friday. First post, 3 p.m.), they say the fastest thing around is Barry McGillivray.

He is trainer, exercise boy, nursemaid and night watchman for nine steeds. Eating heartily and often at his boarding house are Polonez, Cold Sands and Ardorin for Geoffrey Edgelow, the alderman; Magic Breeze, Petite Master, Light the Way and Pixie's Ark for Frank Christian, and Fly Monday and Lord Martin.

Like Kelso, They Get Valet Service

None of them have displayed the haste of a Kelso but they are similar in one respect—they demand considerable valet service.

They like their bedding linen changed often; need their shoes tied; and insist on having their bath drawn. It takes an experienced hand—and a strong one—to cope with them. Mr. McGillivray is both. He is also an ancient 22.

McGillivray considered riding once. The idea went up when Mother Nature blessed him with a middleweight's frame and a reasonably fine appetite. As jockey's go, he is big enough to go bear hunting with a switch.

He has a dark mane which pokes around the edge of his white exercise rider's hat and a way of speaking that would get him past all the doormen at Government House.

Outsiders accustomed to race track jargon pull up sharply when they first hear him. He is full of "Yes, sir," and "Good morning, sir," and he rarely forgets a "Mr."

One morning he worked a horse that was particularly uncouth. "Look at that heavy-headed, dirty so-and-so," said Bill Bell, the steward. "He's giving Barry a rotten time, that 1/2."

When the gallop finished Barry walked the horse, still sawing, past the onlookers' brigade.

Bell knows how it is to handle a rogue. He was Acla Smith's boy once and threw a leg over his share of characters. He looked up at Barry and said, "That's a no-good, blankety-blank blankety-blank," or words to that effect.

Even Fly Monday Has Settled Down

Half a ton of horse had pulled McGillivray's arms out of their sockets and jarred his spine generously but nothing showed. All he said was "Yes, Mr. Bell. He's a little difficult."

In his tack room Friday, McGillivray heated up coffee for himself and a visitor but couldn't persuade Carl De Mello, his jockey, to sip along.

"I have to take off another three pounds," De Mello said. "I take a little coffee, in the morning. No other liquid all day. I hope to do 11" (meaning that he would like to ride at 111 pounds).

De Mello said he had come over just for the day to ride Barry's horses—"to get the feel of them."

"I rode four-five of these horses last year," he said. "Barry's done a fine job with them this spring. That Fly Monday we went five-eighths with—he was a kook last year. Tried to run with me right through his stall (eyes widening) but Barry has him settled down."

Mr. McGillivray, sir, you were with Lou Hammond, the conditioner for Miss Margaret Walters?

"Yes, sir," McGillivray said. "For seven years. Started when I was 13."

Thirteen?

"Yes, I had been around horses, trotters and the like on the Prairies and, well, it's what I wanted to do. But it's hard. We started at 6 sharp and it will be 10 tonight before I finish."

You Have to Work for Shot at Money

Horsemen say that rain, sleet, hail or earthquake, you are out there on the track, slugging it out.

"It's my job," he said, as if that was it. It is really, but most of us cheat occasionally.

Your best horse?

He and De Mello exchanged glances.

"We're happy over the way Magic Breeze is developing," he said. "She's strong, about 940 pounds, and a sister to Touch of Magic. That's the filly that won seven straight on the Prairies last year."

"Pretty name, Magic Breeze," mused De Mello.

"My sponsor, Mr. Frank Christian, has spent $700 in nomination fees on her," McGillivray said. "She's nominated for the Cup and Sauter at Woodbine."

"That's Toronto, isn't it?" asked De Mello. "I haven't been to Toronto. How much is the Cup and Sauter worth—fifty thousand?"

"I think so," McGillivray said, dreamily. "Just having a horse in it... wouldn't that be something?"

He allowed himself the luxury of all of three seconds' blissful peace and contemplation. Then he said, "Excuse me, please, sir, but I just have to get out there and..."

Then he was gone. You don't have a good shot at the money unless you get off your bumper.

Claremont Steps Into Rugby Final

By MARTIN HAGARTY

Finally decided Friday was the rugby club to battle Vic High Titans in the forthcoming Howard Russell Cup championship.

In Friday's Inter-High Senior League playoff match at Macdonald Park, Claremont scored a 6-0 victory over the hard-pressed Oak Bay squad.

Teams had fought to a 3-3 tie earlier in the week to force Friday's replay.

Laurels are due to the aggressive Claremont forwards who dominated scrum play and prevented the speedier Oak Bay backfield from receiving the ball.

Reg Hoole collected the opening try in the first half during loose scrum play. Ken Neufeld, picking up the ball in the loose again, scored in the last half to finalize Claremont's march into the city final.

The Reg Lott-coached Claremont side now goes against the Titans in the title game next Wednesday at Royal Athletic Park, starting at 6:30.

Mount View won the cup last year.

FRANKFURT, Germany—Zora Foley, 210, Chandler, Ariz., and Karl Mildenberger, 180, Germany, drew, 10.

RUGGED VETERAN of professional wrestling wars, Kinji Shibuya is slated for action tonight at Memorial Arena. He'll partner Dale Lewis in tag match against Don Leo Jonathan and Enrique Torres. First of four bouts starts at 8:15.

MEL CARLOW... tries serious approach.

IN TIMES ISLAND OPEN

Dangerous Stranger — That's Mel Carlow

By ERNIE FEDORUK

There's something new around the fairway front these days. Mel Carlow is taking a serious approach to the divoting pastime.

Mel's appearance in the quarter-finals is one of the surprises of this year's Times Vancouver Island Open golf battles.

The survivors tackle each other and the tricky Victoria Golf Club course this Sunday, and there are some who are willing to bet that Carlow will be around for yet one more round.

Meaning, of course, the 36-hole semi-finals at Colwood on April 26.

Assistant professional in Joe Pryke's shop at Gorge Vale, Carlow has never been considered a major threat in major district tournaments.

That, his friends and acquaintances insist, is only because Mel hasn't applied himself.

Munn, Wakeham Clash in Top Match

There was unexpected application for the second match. Mel averaged about two hours on the putting green for the week before his second-round match with Vince Wheatley. It just so happens that Carlow's putter is the main reason he shows up this Sunday for the quarter-final test against Colwood veteran Vic Painter.

This week the practice fairway has been Mel's second home.

So it would seem Mel is finally serious about improving his game.

A graduate of the University of B.C., Mel's strong feature on the course is an exceptionally fine putting touch. That plus the fact Carlow scores well at Oak Bay, could mean trouble for the seasoned Mr. Painter.

The Carlow-Painter match is one of four championship fights Sunday. The gallery-attracting one is the match between Bill Wakeham, defending Island Open king as well as the B.C. Amateur champ, and Cedar Hill professional Dick Munn.

Professional Laurie Carroll meets Gorge Vale's Earl Francis while Ron MacLeod tackles Uplands amateur Eric Wright in other matches. Both MacLeod and Carroll, former winners of the Times Trophy, are favored to move along to the semis.

The first pairing moves off the tee at 11 a.m.

Hard on the heels of the championship contenders are the eight quarterfinalists in the handicap division.

Juvenile Softball

Victoria Minor Softball League will hold a practice for juvenile boys at Central Junior High School Sunday at 1 p.m. All boys who were 16 or under on Jan. 1 are invited to take part in the workout.

ESKS SIGN BACK

EDMONTON (CP) — William Neel (Butch) Pressley, 23-year-old back who topped the United Football League in rushing last year, has been signed by Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Conference.

EVERYTHING ELSE GREAT...

They Forgot Banner-Wavers

NEW YORK (AP) — "It's great, but they shudda made the aisles wider," said the usher in the upper deck.

"How can you march up and down, carrying a banner in a little aisle like that?"

That was one problem the architects who built fabulous Shea Stadium—home of the world's worst baseball team—apparently didn't take into consideration.

The fans of New York Mets, rarely out of 10th place, are both loser-lovers and banner-wavers from way back to two years ago when the team was organized.

There were about 55,000 of them on hand Friday to see the Mets in their new home.

Some of them had banners, and the Mets greeted them with a banner of their own, a message splashed across the 107-foot scoreboard:

"Hi ya, fans. Isn't this the most beautiful park you ever saw?"

From the fellow in seat 17, row V, section 47—the worst seat in the house—down to a couple who won passes at the neighborhood supermarket, almost everyone seemed to agree.

Anthony Ponza of Brooklyn, the fellow in the last seat in the top deck in right field, said he has been a National League fan "ever since the Mets got started."

He said "it's no fun seeing the Yankees play—they always win."

Yanks Making Bid To Steal Met Fans

By The Canadian Press

Nope, they haven't mixed up the standings of the two leagues. That "New York 0-2 000" in the lowest reaches of the American League standings refers to the Yankees.

You'll find the Mets in their accustomed place in their proper league with an 0-3 record.

But the Yankees seem to be putting in a serious bid to steal the allegiance of New York baseball fans who lean towards the underdog. In the brief life of the 1964 season, they're compiling a file of hard-luck stories that Casey Stengel's hirelings would be proud of.

First they lost two days at Yankee Stadium because of rain. Then a disappointing crowd turned up Thursday to watch Whitey Ford, of all people, wild-pitch the winning run home in an 11-inning 4-3 loss to Boston Red Sox.

They took the show on the road Friday and lost by the same score in the same inning at Baltimore as pitcher Russ Snyder singled through the drawn-in infield with the bases loaded. A two-base error by Phil Linz had set up the play.

The victory, the Orioles' third without a setback, put them in first place, a half-game ahead of the Red Sox who won their second in a row by downing Chicago White Sox 4-1. Don Zimmer's pinch double and Earl Battey's error dropped Minnesota from the unbeaten ranks as the Twins fell to Washington Senators 4-3.

Los Angeles Angels hammered Detroit Tigers 8-3 and Cleveland Indians outslugged Kansas City Athletics 6-4 in the other games played.

Like Ford the day before, Jim Bouton gamely tried to go all the way for the Yankees and nearly made it. He gave up single runs in the second, third and fourth innings but Tom Tresh eventually tied it up by singling home Mickey Mantle in the eighth.

BOSTON ROOKIE HOMERS

In the 11th, Bouton yielded a single to Johnny Orsino and Linz put runners on second and third with his misplay. Brooks Robinson was intentionally walked and rookie Pete Mikkelson went to the mound.

The drawn-in infield got a force at the plate on Jerry Adair before Snyder broke it up.

Rookie Tony Conigliaro hit one out of the park in his first appearance at Fenway Park and Dalton Jones, another freshman, tripled home another run with a drive that outfielder Floyd Robinson lost in the sun in Boston's home opener, dedicated to the late President Kennedy.

GIANTS WIN IN TENTH

In the National League, Chuck Hiller walk with the bases loaded in the 10th inning to give San Francisco Giants a 5-4 victory over St. Louis Cardinals. Milwaukee tripped the Colts 5-2 at Houston, Philadelphia outslugged the Cubs 10-8 at Chicago, Pittsburgh Pirates edged the Mets 4-3 at New York and Cincinnati Reds whipped Los Angeles Dodgers 7-3.

A ninth-inning single by Bill Mazeroski scored Willie Stargell and spoiled the official opening of the Mets' new $28,000,000 Shea Stadium, attended by 50,312 fans. The losers had the consolation of ending 52 1/2 innings of shutout pitching against them by Pittsburgh's Bob Friend when they scored their three runs in the fourth inning.

"Wow! My 100-to-1 shot came in and I've made a killing!"

LARKS SIGN END

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference announced the signing of Lou Fogle, a 22-year-old offensive and defensive end from Clemson College, Southern Carolina.

ROSBURG FALLS BACK

Four Sharing Houston Lead

HOUSTON (AP)—Ramon Sota of Spain made a beautiful recovery on the final green Friday to pull into a four-way tie at 139 with Don January, Billy Maxwell and Buster Cupit for the 36-hole lead in the $50,000 Houston Golf Classic. They were three under par.

Big Mike Souchak, four under par through 16 holes, missed a chance to tie or grab the lead by going one over par on each of the two final holes.

January had started the traffic jam at 139 by adding a five-under-par 66 to a first round 73 for the 7,233-yard, par 35-36 71 Sharpstown Country Club course.

BIRDIE PUTT

Minutes later Maxwell sank an eight-foot birdie putt on the final green for his 68-71-139. This was quickly matched by a 71-68 by Cupit.

Sota, a 25-year-old pro from Santander, Spain, was five under par through 14 holes but shots into a sand trap and a ditch lost strokes on the 15th and 17th holes. He approached the final tee needing a par to tie.

SHOT UNPLAYABLE

Sota's second shot was unplayable, landing in a one-foot strip of grass between a television tower leg and a fence. He was permitted to drop the ball about 20 feet to the left and a chip shot set up a five-foot putt that gave him a par 71 to go with his first-round 68.

Souchak still had a chance for the lead but he went one over par on the 155-yard 17th and then three-putted the final hole for another one-over that gave him a 69-71-140 tie with Bob Rosburg, the first-round leader, and Butch Baird of Galveston, Tex.

NICKLAUS 66

Lionel Hebert, the 1957 PGA champion, had a 69-72-141 but Jack Nicklaus, the pre-tournament favorite, matched January's 68 to join defending champion Bob Charles of New Zealand in another traffic jam at par 142.

Charles turned in a second straight par 71.

Wilt Homenuik of Winnipeg, who shot a respectable 70 on opening day, soared to a 76 Friday for a 146 total. Al Johnson of Montreal added a 73 to his first-day 76, for 149.

Stage-Struck Bruins Seared by Hot Kings

EDMONTON (CP)—Edmonton Oil Kings picked the best possible time to provide their top display in two months, coach Buster Brayshaw said Friday night after Kings thumped Estevan Bruins 5-2 before 6,043 fans in the opening game of the 1963 Abbott Cup hockey final.

Even after the triumph, in which Estevan netminder Wayne Doll blocked 37 shots to 23 for Russ Kirk of Edmonton, Brayshaw retained high respect for the Saskatchewan Junior League representatives.

"I think Estevan was tense," Brayshaw said.

BOWLER OF WEEK

Joining list of winners in Times Bowler-of-the-Week competition is Joe Fletcher, 3610 Richmond, who has captured the weekly award in the men's tenpin division. Bowler for two years and now rolling in two leagues, Joe hit top with 617 three-game series at Mayfair Lanes. He squeezed whopping 247 game between singles of 179 and 191 in Wednesday Commercial League.

Ford, Heberton Shine in Benefit

The Alberni Flood Disaster Fund will be swelled by $900 within the next few days.

That was the sum realized from Friday's exhibition hockey game at Esquimalt's Sports Centre.

Over 1,200 fans turned out to see Esquimalt District League all-stars defeat the champion Pontiac Chiefs 7-5 in the last hockey game of the season.

As expected, three former Cougars carried the brunt of the All-Star attack. Boston Bruins' winger Andy Heberton and George Ford of Vancouver Canucks each scored two goals.

Doug Anderson, retired member of the ex-Cougar line, plunked in a fifth.

Ford replaced Eddy Dorohoy on the line. Dorohoy was unable to play because of business reasons.

Ken Maxwell and Ron Cooke of Navy added the All-Stars' other goals while Doug Couch (2), Jim Bronson (2) and Orv Coulter scored for Chiefs.

Kings, seeking their second consecutive Memorial Cup championship, meet Estevan in the second game of the best-of-seven series here Monday night.

Butch Paul, Max Mestinek, Doug Fox, Reg Taschuk and Greg Pilling scored for Edmonton. Captain Skip Krake replied with a pair for the losers.

Paul, a tireless and talented 155-pounder, overshadowed Estevan's Fran Huck, picked up from Regina Pats, in what was billed as a battle between the outstanding junior centres in Western Canada.

Huck missed much of the first period with an ailing knee after being dumped by Butch Barber.

LONDON (AP)—Liverpool whipped Arsenal 5-0 today and won the English League soccer championship, also qualifying for the European Cup of national champions next season.

A sixth-minute goal by centre forward Ian St. John started Liverpool's victory march against Arsenal. By half time Liverpool led 2-0 on a second goal by inside left Alf Arrowsmith.

A crowd of 45,623 watched the match.

Liverpool took the championship without much effort.

The Merseysiders now have 56 points from 39 games. Manchester United, defeated 3-1 by Stoke City, has 51 points from 41 games.

Chelsea completed the season of 42 games by defeating defending champion Everton 1-0 on a penalty goal by right winger Bert Murray in the first half.

Everton has 50 points from 41 matches. Then comes Tottenham Hotspur with 49 points from 40 matches followed by Sheffield Wednesday with 49 from a completed program of 42 matches.

The season ends with the Cup final at London's Wembley Stadium May 2 between First Division West Ham United and Second Division Preston North End.

MISS CLOSE IN

Stoke City defeated Manchester United—but only after three fine scoring chances had gone begging in front of the Stoke goal. All came in the first five minutes, and all were missed.

By half time Stoke led 2-1 on goals from halfback Palmer in the 17th minute and inside right Denis Violet in the 21st minute. Centre forward J. Ritchie clinched Stoke's win in the 78th minute.

Sunderland won promotion from the second to the first division by beating Charlton, 2-1. Leeds already has won promotion.

Early Eruption Shakes Ottawa

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (CP)—Five goals by Woodstock Athletics within four minutes in the first period Friday night helped power them to a 10-1 win over Ottawa Montagnards and a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven Eastern Canada Allan Cup finals.

Third and fourth games will be played at Ottawa next Monday and Wednesday.

Bookie Informed Of Soccer Fixes

SHEFFIELD, England (AP)—A Sheffield bookmaker claims that at least two professional soccer matches were fixed each week last season.

Sheffield detectives are already investigating allegations of fixed games in the 1962-63 season. They are expected to question bookmaker James Thorpe about his allegations.

Thorpe, one of the city's biggest soccer bookmakers, said Friday night: "Without fail last season I was told of crooked matches on the Thursday morning and they all went the way I was told they would go."

"Usually there were two of these matches, sometimes three."

REFUSED BETS

Thorpe said each of his staff of 30 was given a list of the fixed matches and they refused to accept bets on them.

"I am unable to reveal where my information came from, but it's origin was in London," said the bookmaker.

Asked if he had told police about the affair, Thorpe said: "I did not inform the police. How could I prove anything like this?"

Thorpe said he had not refused any bets on soccer matches this season and had not received any information about matches being fixed.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Middleweight boxing champion Joey Giardello won a split-decision victory over Argentina's Juan (Rocky) Rivero Friday night but took a severe beating in the process.

Giardello, 33, who had not fought since winning the title from Dick Tiger Dec. 7, was hurt in the ninth round when Rivero tagged him with an overhand right.

Seals Hold WHL Crown

SAN FRANCISCO (CP)—San Francisco Seals made Western Hockey League history Friday night, winning the league title for the second year in a row with a 4-3 victory over Los Angeles Blades in the sixth game of the best-of-seven series for the Lester Patrick Cup.

The victory gave the Seals the league title four games to two before 11,229 fans, one of the biggest hockey crowds drawn to the Cow Palace all season.

Last year Seals beat Seattle Totems for the title.

Ray Cyr was the hero of the night with two Seal goals. The others were scored by Gerry Brison and Al Nicholson.

Leo Labine scored two of the Los Angeles goals and Willie O'Ree got the other.

San Francisco finished fourth in regular season play in the six-team league.

Blades played without the services of two star defencemen, Frank Arnett and Howie Young, the "bad boy" who came down from the National Hockey League late in the season.

Arnett was under an indefinite suspension and a $300 fine for protesting too vigorously the officiating of referee Willie Papp in Wednesday's game at Los Angeles which the Blades took 8-2.

Young was out with muscular spasms in his back.

IT WILL TAKE MORE THAN WHEAT

THE WORLD SEEKS Canada's wheat, but the world cannot live on wheat alone. Even more urgent, the whole earth needs a new social order governed by hate-free, fear-free, greed-free men. This is what the age challenges the Canadian people to produce. In the commitment to meet this challenge Canada will find her theme of nationhood and destiny.

Separatism, bi-culturalism and federalism all fall short of what is needed for modern man. In the Commons, appeals for a country united above the differences of its people bring united cheers from the Members. People respond to these sentiments. But the path to unity is blocked by personal and sectional ambitions. The aim is too small. Small aims mean a divided people. Frustration, disillusionment, cynicism gnaw and grow like a cancer in the Canadian heart. For people are no closer to God than they are to the person, race or class from whom they feel most divided.

Yet, with a master purpose in which all are needed and in which all can share, our different racial and cultural elements would be our greatest national asset. Will Canada accept the revolution in aim and character which the age demands? The claims of hungry nations become more urgent as their people multiply and their hopes diminish. The failures of Western society have made millions turn to Communism. The contradictions in Communist society find Moscow asking for a man who is "honest, pure in mind, unselfish and loyal." But in its efforts to bury God, Communism buries the hope of bringing this new man to birth.

The world needs a fundamental revolution.

What can Canada do?

What is Canada's role?

There are Canadians from East and West, Quebec and the Prairies who say we can, we must and we will take on this, the greatest task in history. There has been a dramatic response to the purpose and character of Moral Re-Armament in Quebec. The facts need to be known, conclusions drawn and action taken by the Cabinet and all those from coast to coast who are concerned with the future of the nation.

Report from Quebec

From October, 1963, to February, 1964, a force made up of people from 17 nations by invitation moved through the Province of Quebec with "El Condor," a play written and performed by students, workers and industrialists from Peru, Bolivia and Brazil.

Throughout the four months' tour in Quebec hospitals, schools, convents, seminaries and hundreds of homes offered food and accommodation to the cast of "El Condor." Transportation of the scenery and equipment for the play was regularly carried out as a contribution. This kind of participation played an important part in making possible the whole operation.

Labour

Trade Union leaders from Quebec, from the asbestos mines, the aluminum plants, the St. Lawrence waterfront, the textile plants, the paper mills participated in the program.

In Asbestos where in 1949 we had one of our most serious industrial wars, the union, the company and the city together provided all the hospitality and paid all the expenses for this action of Moral Re-Armament in their city.

Said Armand Larivee, President of the Asbestos Miners' Union of Quebec, "Those who want to see things different in the world must follow the example of these people. Then we will accomplish great things in this country. They demonstrate the unity that is everywhere needed."

Isaie Villeneuve, President of the 4,500 Aluminum Workers of Arvida, came to Ottawa to give his conviction to the press, the public and members of the Cabinet: "Moral Re-Armament gives the nation its purpose and labour its destiny."

Thirty-seven labour officials in a signed citation to the trade union men from Latin America with this international force agreed "You have brought us a hope, a challenge and a new conception of revolution."

Youth

More than 125,000 students from 200 schools, colleges and universities throughout the province welcomed this force. "Quebec is ripe for revolution," said a student leader. "But we refuse the half revolution based on hate and bitterness. What we need is a revolution which tackles not only society but the heart of the problem, man himself."

Students in Quebec and Victoriaville produced special editions of their college newspapers to give the program of Moral Re-Armament to the youth of the province. A delegation from Victoriaville came to Ottawa with the twelve-page special edition of their paper to present it to the press and Federal Ministers. Said the president of the Student Body of Victoriaville College on a television program, "Moral Re-Armament is the true solution to the problems of Quebec. This solution depends not only on structures and organizations but also on the quality of men."

Eighteen students from Shawinigan on their own initiative and at their own expense travelled six hours by bus to come to Ottawa with their student paper to express their acceptance of this challenge facing the nation.

Said Pierre St. Cyr, president of the Student Body of Jean Brebeuf College, Montreal, "This can be the starting point to revolutionize Quebec. I believe we will see a new Canada."

Press

Under the heading, "To Catholics Who Have Fallen Asleep," L'Action, Catholic daily of Quebec, devoted a leading editorial to the visit of "El Condor" to Quebec City. After quoting Pope Paul, "The Catholic who doesn't feel a fire has turned to ashes," the editorial contends: "For many 'El Condor' can rekindle the fire which smoulders under the ashes of our routine ways and comfortable living. For many of our Catholics who have fallen asleep this storm of good which is arising could be the moment of awakening."

Lorenzo Pare, the editor-in-chief, writes, "The western theatre was born on the steps of the cathedrals to introduce people to the sacred mysteries. Today it has invaded every home in the world, peddling for the most part nothing but trash."

"The team of 'El Condor' is presently applying to the people of Quebec a psychological shock treatment after having accomplished a similar task in Latin America and most recently in Italy. With this elite force . . . dedicated to 'the moral re-armament' of their brothers the theatre which had largely become an instrument of perversion returns to its original purity, offering people a period of resurrection."

La Presse, in a review by the noted theatre critic Jean Beraud, says: "They really win your heart these students of Latin America who are presenting a play of their own creation, 'El Condor' which opened last night at the Comedie Canadienne."

"They are young, passionate, enthusiastic and they're rebels against the world which surrounds and cramps them . . . One is carried away by the sincerity of these young men and their conviction about the relevance of their message."

Political Leaders

Moral Re-Armament was welcomed to La Malbaie by Mayor Martial Asselin, former Minister of Forestry in the Federal Government. He said to the people of his city, "During my two years at the United Nations, I was in constant contact with the nations of the entire world. The men and women of 'El Condor' give the perspective in which nations must meet. They develop the objectives and ideas of a nation, so that it fulfills the role that Providence has bestowed upon it."

In St. Felicien, Mayor Alfred Hamel found in this program a purpose for Canada bigger than nationalism; broader than the issues dividing English and French, provincial and federal governments. He said, "I believe that what we need in Canada, what we need in this province and what we need in this Lac St. Jean region, is a national policy based on the ideological principles of Moral Re-Armament."

La Tribune of Sherbrooke, Quebec, in an editorial of November 27, 1963, quoted the Honourable Emilien Lafrance, Minister of Social and Family Welfare, in speaking of this action with "El Condor" when he said it is "an initiative which has as its aim to recall men to their duties as Christians, and to the distinctive role which is theirs to play in the political orientation of the country."

Presiding at a dinner honouring the force with "El Condor" in Montreal, Mr. Lafrance said, "I am happy and proud tonight to say publicly in front of the whole province that I have become more Christian and, consequently, a better Catholic since I have had the honour to attend the brilliant play, 'El Condor.' God knows how urgent and imperative it is for the whole Province of Quebec, which is deluged by a wave of crime, hate and violence, to make known and, more important, to live this message of faith."

Challenge of History

Moral Re-Armament is a plumb line through the heart of modern man.

It is a test by which individuals and society pass judgment on themselves.

Its Christian standards of absolute honesty, purity, unselfishness and love remain the challenge and the charter for the conscience of mankind. They embody the deceptions of life which the common man everywhere instinctively wants and knows to be right.

Moral Re-Armament is a passionate commitment to see Canada play her rightful part in creating a new age.

A house divided cannot stand. A house built on sand cannot last. A civilization built on dirt cannot endure. If men believe they can last for long solely pursuing wealth, sex, comfort, dreading atomic desolation, in a climate which seeks to prove that evil is good, good evil, then men are mad. Those who concentrate on the purse and belly of the national economy but neglect the idea in the head and the answer in the heart, the soul and the spirit of nations, do so at their peril.

Canada is a nation supremely equipped by tradition and history to rise and answer the challenge of history. Will we change and so be able to say honestly to the listening earth, "In our society we have answered the divisions that will destroy humanity; we have learned to live like sons and daughters of God; because we are guided by the living God; our homes are united, our men are faithful, our women are pure, our industries are honourable, labour and management both serve the community, both put people before profits, wages or hours?"

Events are moving at a colossal speed. Communist, Socialist and free enterprise societies face together that environment, legislation, welfare, and wealth do not by themselves create the new type of man without whom humanity may destroy itself. God can—and will—if we let Him. The power of Christ can end hatred in human hearts and bring answers that no politics and no laws, necessary as they are, can accomplish.

We have faith in the Canadian people. We believe that, as the crisis of our times grows more acute and clear, they will accept the challenge, they will be willing to pay the price of change, they will understand that there is nobody more reactionary, whether Communist or non-Communist, than the person who wants to see the world different but refuses to become different himself.

The nationhood and destiny of Canada lie in the commitment of her people, leaders and led, to the supreme revolutionary task of this era—to remake the whole world and take humanity into the next great step of evolution—the moral re-armament of the nations.

For a lush green lawn, all you need is a lawn and GREEN CROSS!

This Peek-a-Boo Divider Adds a Decorative Touch

By PAULINE GRAVES

If you would like to define the boundary of a room without blocking it off completely, here's an idea for you.

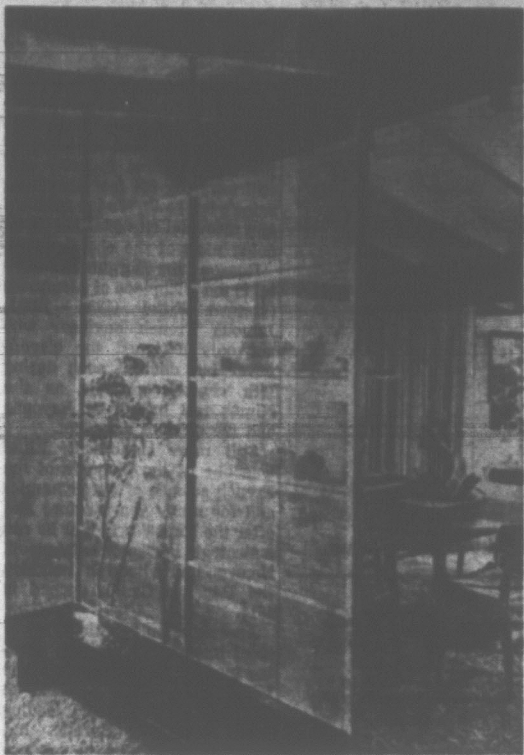

It is a permanent screen, made of 1x2s, fastened to the ceiling and to the floor. Instead of using solid panels, the owners filled the openings with matchstick blinds which partially obscure the view. However, the matchsticks are so slender and so spaced that forms and figures can be seen through them.

Any type of loosely woven material could be used, split bamboo, or even an open-weave textured fabric.

To give the screen an appearance of solidity, and also to prevent a chair leg or a careless foot from going through the lightweight material, the two-base panels are of wood. The see-through quality is not needed at that level, and the wood is a safety factor.

The screen is a decorative asset, too, for on one side it forms a handsome background for a low table on which a tall floral arrangement is displayed. On the other side, two shelves are hung.

Made of 1/2" plywood, they are fastened to the screen's crossbeams, but because it was impossible to use angle irons, their chief support comes from the two heavy wire arms.

These arms extend from the vertical posts down to the fronts of the shelves. Just eight inches deep, the shelves hold decorative serving accessories whose outlines can be seen dimly on the opposite side.

For easy flow of traffic between the two rooms, the screen stands in the centre of the dividing space, leaving several feet open on each side.

Navy Blue News

Navy blue, once fashion's favorite for women's apparel, is high on the list of new colors for home furnishings this spring. It will be combined with light, soft pastels or with white in many of the new decorator fabrics, wallpapers and area rugs, according to reports from fashion observers in New York city.

Another trend to watch is the rising popularity of bland neutral tones such as oyster, parchment and rice paper tones, often combined with sharp, brilliant colors.

Watchful Eye, Care Reduce Repair Bill

By MR. FIX

To many people the cost of an appliance has become almost secondary to the cost of keeping it running.

With prices for parts and labor going up all the time, it becomes more and more important to avoid unnecessary service calls.

You can eliminate expense by practising proper care of your appliances. Read the instruction book that the manufacturer supplied. Save it and refer to it.

KEEP WATCH
Make simple repairs yourself before they grow into major repairs that are too much for you to handle.

Appliance cords will wear out in time. Plugs that no longer remain tight in the outlet should be replaced. If the appliance goes on and off as you move the cord there's a short in the cord. Replace it entirely. Sometimes the cord pulls loose where it is connected to the appliance. This often happens with vacuum cleaners.

Remove the frayed ends. Bare enough wire to wrap around the terminals, or to other wires inside the appliance. Use solderless connectors or rosin-core solder if you are familiar with its use. Wrap with insulating tape.

OIL AWAY

Keep appliances properly lubricated. Refer to your owner's manual. Acquaint yourself with oiling points. For example, felt inside an oil cup should be kept moist with oil, but not wet.

Carbon brushes may need replacement, especially on small motors that are run constantly. These are generally found under small plastic plugs on each side of the motor.

Often all that is wrong is a blown fuse. The appliance may be, on a separate circuit, and therefore other lights and appliances will remain on. Turn off the switch at the fuse box before changing the fuse. Use only a fuse of the same size; not one heavier; never by-pass the fuse.

If there are other electrical items on the same circuit, disconnect one or two. If the fuse still blows, better have the appliance checked.

Sometimes a temporary overload will blow a fuse built right into the appliance. Ranges, dryers, washers, even some coffee pots have their own. Learn their location and have a spare on hand.

FINE POINTS

Tank type cleaners that fail to pick up may have a blocked hose. A hairpin or similar item will get stuck and dirt will build up against it. Take a piece of wire and turn up a hook at one end to clear the obstruction.

Upright cleaners with a revolving brush are equipped with a rubber belt to make the brush turn. These often break. Keep an extra on hand.

BEASTALL ADVISES

Babbling Brook or Irrigation — The Problem Is Simpler Today

The coolish weather and rain of the past week has prevented gardeners from doing a number of jobs they would like to get completed, but it does provide a break in which some side-tracked projects could be tackled.

Wishing for warmer weather leads to thoughts of dry months when watering the garden requires daily attention, and when that time arrives we usually remember the changes we intended to institute to make the work easier.

To me, plastic or rubber sprinkling hose is the most awkward, aggravating and messy piece of gardening equipment ever invented, and at the same time it is a wonderful improvement over the old system of water can and rain barrel.

Outside taps for garden watering are usually located in the lower part of the front and back walls of the house, and it takes from 75 to 100 feet of hose to effectively reach the far corners of the lot.

SOLUTIONS

This length of hose can be most cantankerous in a closely planted garden, looping around precious plants, bulldozing rows of seedlings, snagging every stake and row marker, and always a few feet short of the required length.

It is astonishing the number of gardeners who concede that a plant died because their hose was not quite long enough.

To those who have these watering problems I suggest there is no better time than the present in which to effect a solution.

Taps can be conveniently placed every 25 feet. If you so wish, from the house to the back fence, and every part of the garden can be adequately watered with a short length of hose.

All that is required is a length of the modern plastic pipe, a few suitable fittings, a screwdriver and a sharp knife.

The pipe may be laid on the surface of the soil, or in a shallow trench for a more permanent installation. Being pliable it is easily bent around obstructions, and its ability to expand should it freeze obviates the need for deep trenches.

The price of this pipe has dropped considerably over the past few years, but the fittings still seem a little expensive when compared with the cost of galvanized or black counter-parts.

MANY USES

The ease of installation more than offsets the difference in price, for the tightening of a rustproof clamp with a screwdriver is all that is needed to join fitting and pipe.

The pipe itself is cut to length with a knife or hacksaw, and special adapters couple it to existing lines of metal pipe and permit the use of metal taps and shut-off valves.

It provides an ideal way of supplying water to a greenhouse, a bank of cold frames, a fountain in a pool or a waterfall over rocks.

For garden watering it often pays to use a surface installation at the start and operate it for one season, making necessary extensions and adjustments so that the final underground job will be as convenient as any gardener could wish.

Modern underground lawn sprinkling systems use plastic pipe and fittings exclusively to get around rusting and corrosion and reduce installation costs by eliminating pipe cutting, threading and below frost line trenches.

SPRINKLING SYSTEM

As mentioned before, plastic pipe expands instead of breaking when frozen. This attribute makes it unnecessary to lay a lawn sprinkling system with a gradual fall to a drainpipe point, and this greatly simplifies the installation.

Home gardeners would do well to consider such a system before putting in a lawn.

It need not be elaborate, the most expensive item possibly being the pop-up spray nozzles which are needed to prevent tangling with the lawn mower.

Since each nozzle covers a wide area very few will be needed to adequately water the small grass areas common to most home gardens.

Running water in the garden, whether the musical splash of a fountain or a waterfall, has a particular charm of its own, and its pleasure has been denied many water lovers due to difficulties in laying metal pipes.

Seal Outlets

Electrical outlets close to the floor can be safely sealed against small children's fingers with strips of masking tape. The tape is easily removed when it is necessary to use the outlet.

THE WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL

By JACK BEASTALL
Gardens with light textured, well drained soil will be in a condition for all types of planting, particularly flowering shrubs, perennials and the hardier annuals.

Snappedragons, pannies, carnations and stocks can be planted if they have been hardened gradually to outdoor cool nights.

As the soil warms, plants and weeds will all make rapid growth.

With heavy, wet soils planning and preparation will speed the work when the right conditions prevail. Have all tools clean and sharp; a supply of wooden labels and a black marking pencil for labeling plants and rows; a strong garden line; a soil screen of half-inch mesh; and a rubber-tired wheelbarrow or garden cart.

On a day when the air is reasonably warm, clean out the jilly pool. Growth is commencing, and the dead leaves and other debris can be easily removed. Add new water lilies and other water plants.

Sow seed of annual herbs outdoors if soil suitably dry.

Dill, sweet marjoram, summer savory, borage, chervil, coriander; but sow sweet basil or bush basil indoors for later transplanting.

Early or main crop potatoes can still be planted.

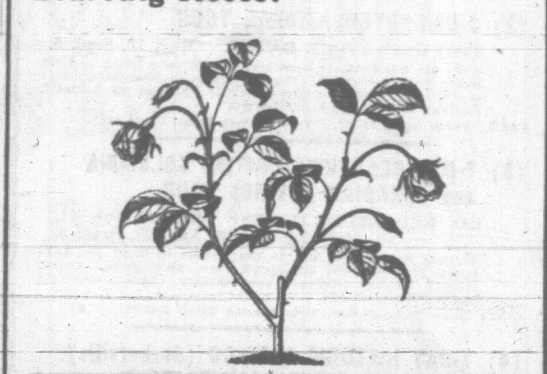

Sowings in open garden can include white turnip, beet, carrot, lettuce, radish, parsley, early and late peas.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO SWIM IT

Cross Channel in Luxury

By CYRIL RAY
LONDON—I suppose that the slowest and—except for the British Railways' night-train ferry service—the most uncomfortable way to cross the Channel is to swim it.

The most luxurious way I know is by the French liner France, which puts in at Southampton on the last leg of her voyage from New York to Le Havre, and again on the first day of the return trip. So many passengers to and from New York get on and off at Southampton that the liner is never full for the Channel crossing and welcomes bookings for a single crossing, or the return trip.

Superb Value

It isn't quick, and it isn't particularly cheap, but treated as the first or the last day of your Continental holiday it is superb value: Few people I know will be staying or will have stayed at a hotel so luxurious—I certainly couldn't afford to, myself.

When I made the crossing, I had to be on board at 7:30 a.m. for departure at about 10 o'clock.

I was ushered into the restaurant for breakfast, and presented with a menu that began with baskets of fresh fruit, ended with eight kinds of coffee, three of tea and four of infusions, and included dishes as French as onion soup, as English as lamb chops and as American as hominy grits, four choices of fish, 14 of eggs and the best petits pains I have ever eaten—the ship's kitchens bake them fresh three times a day.

Classes Mingle

Mine was a first-class ticket ($37.10 one way, $66.78 round trip), but my advice is to travel tourist ($20.58 and $37.10, children in either case half price). The doors between the public rooms of the two classes are not closed for the cross-Channel run, and whatever you have paid you have the run of the ship—the smart first class saloons as well as the not much less elegant tourist class.

You can shop at Le Printemps; read and write in the libraries; take your children to the sandpit, the roundabout and the rocking-horses; go to the cinema, which is on all day; patronize the hairdresser and the beauty parlor; dance, swim, or take a sauna bath. The price of your ticket will determine only which class of cabin you will share with other cross-channel passengers as a base for dumping luggage and for the use of bathroom and lavatory, and in which restaurant you will have your two meals each way.

In Tradition

Both restaurants, first-class and tourist, are served by kitchens which, though brand new, are in the great French tradition.

Breakfast and lunch on the way out; lunch and dinner on the way back (my own dinner on the way back being one of the best French meals I have ever been offered); the traditional mid-morning bouillon, and tea and biscuits at bedtime—all are included in the fare.

Drinks in the smartest bars are cheaper than ashore, and the wine list includes chateau-bottled clarets at less than $2.80 a bottle.

By skilful manoeuvring and, perhaps, a period of abstinence beforehand, one might manage to spend almost the whole eight or so hours aboard each way (about six hours' sailing time) in eating and drinking, and on the highest level at that.

Torch-lighting ceremony, Kailua-Kona, Hawaii.

Motels Come First In Car-Short Russia

By HENRY S. BRADSHAW

MOSCOW (AP)—In Canada, the motel followed the development of travel by private automobile. Here in Russia, the motel came first.

Two have been opened on the highway that encircles Moscow, just beyond the point at which prefabricated apartment houses are turning rolling farmland into suburbs. More motels are planned.

They aren't exactly motels as you know them. Vehicles go into a parking lot and the customers walk through the lobby and upstairs to their rooms.

The Russians have taken the word "motel" and put it on combinations of hotel, service station and garage.

FEW CARS

There are few private cars in the Soviet Union and not many roads to travel. Trucks are the main highway users. Their drivers get special consideration in reservations at the motels.

Perhaps some day the present trickle of foreign visitors by auto will swell enough to provide tourist business. At the moment the two motels are primarily used as inconveniently located annexes of Moscow's crowded downtown hotels.

The motels don't even have

That Tower Marks Up Its 75th Birthday

The Eiffel Tower, France's number one tourist draw, celebrates its 75th anniversary this year and expects to attract nearly two million visitors in 1964.

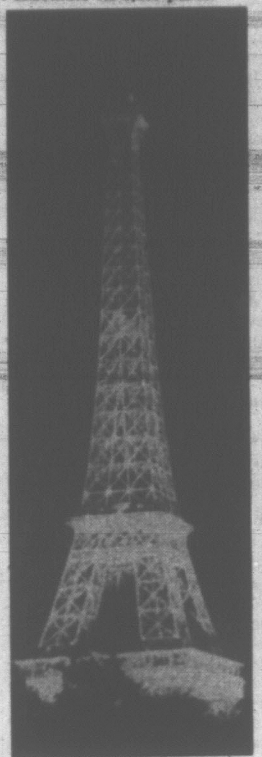

Though Parisians are rightly proud of their mighty but graceful landmark, erected at the 1889 Paris fair to mark the birth of the French steel industry and still towering 984 feet above the Seine's left bank, it's the must-see and musical city of Dijon that's doing most of the cheering.

Reason: the Burgundian capital is the birthplace of Alexandre Gustave Eiffel (1832-1923), famous French engineer who not only designed the elegant tower but devised such daring 19th century projects as the Nîmes rail bridge at Bayonne and the Garabit aqueduct.

Still more significant, Eiffel was one of the pioneers of the French science of aerodynamics and for many years before and after the First World War he ran a strategic laboratory at Auteuil. He even had a hand in designing the Panama Canal, opened in 1914.

An exhibition marking Eiffel's most important work and showing modern scientific uses of the Eiffel Tower will be held at Dijon (May 21-23) and leading Dijon architect, Barade, has been commissioned to produce a monument 'worthy of so great a name'. What will it be—another Eiffel Tower? Oh, no!—just an imaginative 40-foot-tall structure—steel of course—since Eiffel was the father of modern French steel construction.

The Eiffel Tower, weighing 6,900 tons, has three platforms and two restaurants. It took 300 Frenchmen more than two years to assemble its 1,300 parts.

Driver Killed In Sports Car

NANAIMO—A 19-year-old Nanaimo youth died at the wheel of his sports car early this morning when it spun out of control and turned over on the Nanaimo Lakes Road.

Dead is Michael Allan Virost, 350 4th Street.

His passenger, 15-year-old Barbara Richmond, suffered multiple bruises and abrasions when she was thrown from the car. Her condition is reported as satisfactory in Nanaimo hospital.

The accident occurred at 1:45 a.m., on the Nanaimo Lake Road.

An inquest will be held next week.

CAMPBELL RIVER—Meanest thief in town struck over the weekend.

Members of the Campbell River Rifle and Pistol Club are building a clubhouse with volunteer labor.

Last week, 150 concrete blocks were delivered to the site, on Quinsam Road.

When club members turned up for a building bee Sunday morning, the blocks had been carted away. Clubmen said the thieves should know better than to steal from a group so prolific with firearms.

DUNCAN—A total of 55 senior citizens of this district will be guests Sunday of the Duncan AOTS Club on a scenic ride around Cowichan and Maple Bays.

In charge of the outing are Norm Carter, Ernie Stafford and Chuck Maquire.

Afterwards, girls of the Duncan United Church CGIT group will serve tea at 4 p.m.

CAMPBELL RIVER—Annual meeting of shareholders of Campbell River and District Winter Club will be held in the Curling Rink Wednesday, April 22, at 8 p.m.

Shareholders will hear a report on the operation of the rink to date, a smashing success since it first opened its doors in January and elect a new board of directors.

Membership certificates will also be presented to the 300 shareholders who put up $100 each to get the club off on a firm financial footing.

DUNCAN—A record for per capita book loans during 1963 has been set by the Duncan branch of the Vancouver Island Regional Library.

Duncan with a population of 4,000 persons circulated a total of 108,129 books during the month.

Other Island population and book borrowing figures are: Courtenay (3,500) 61,982; Port Alberni (11,500) 76,091; Alberni (5,700) 15,046; Campbell River (3,800) 26,337; Ladysmith (3,400) 15,429.

$1,000 Penalty For Liquor Sale On the Sabbath

NANAIMO—A local hotel Friday was fined $1,000 after being found guilty of two charges under the Government Liquor Act.

Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts found Lotus Hotel Holdings Co. guilty of selling liquor on a Sunday and failing to file a list of employees with the Liquor Control Board.

Two employees of the firm, Henry Clark and Joseph De Pauw, were also fined $300 each for selling beer on the premises of the Lotus Hotel Sunday, Oct. 13, 1963.

E. D. Strongtharm, counsel for the hotel, contended that the company was not implicated in the affair.

He said the company was not negligent, and that its president and managing director, E. C. Reid, had no knowledge of the incidents.

LAW "DRASTIC"

"Unfortunately, the explanation does not relieve the company of responsibility under the Liquor Act," replied the magistrate. "The Liquor Act provisions are drastic. Whether I agree with them or not the hotel in this case is guilty."

Prosecutor Harold Hine said that, although the owners of the hotel did not know of the illegal sale, it showed "a drastic lack of supervision."

Smoketown Tour Set for C of C

Sixty Chamber of Commerce members will fly out from Patricia Bay airport Wednesday, June 3, for a see-B.C. tour of the Trail area.

Funeral Held For Pioneer Missionary

PORT ALBERNI—Funeral services were held at First Baptist Church here today for Rev. John Telford Ross, a pioneer missionary among West Coast Indians.

He died at Sunset Inn, Qualicum, earlier this week.

Born 96 years ago in Leith, Ont., he came to Alberni in 1896, and from then until 1950 served in mission fields on the coast and on the prairies for the Presbyterian Church.

An expert carpenter, he built houses and churches on the reserves along the Island's west coast and one of his projects was the building of Little Church on the Corner.

CHURCH LOST

The church, at Beaver Creek and River Roads, was one of the buildings swept away in the March 28 tidal wave.

For a time, Mr. Ross was also principal of the Indian school at Ahousat.

He is survived by the widow, Louise, two grandchildren, Mrs. Allan (Audrey) Thompson, Victoria, and Daniel Ross, Alberni; four great-grandchildren.

Experts Dying to Know Who's Dyeing the Gulls

VANCOUVER (CP)—Somebody is painting seagulls.

Dr. Ian McTaggart Cowan wants him to fess up.

"We'd like to know who it is and what he's up to," said the University of British Columbia zoologist Friday. "Whoever it is has been at it since before Christmas."

The birds, in pink, red and yellow hue, have been spotted throughout the Gulf of Georgia, as far north as Campbell River and as far south as the Gulf Islands.

Lawyer Ronald MacIsaac, for one, was happy to find out about it because he thought he saw a bluish-pink gull two weeks ago and "didn't have nerve enough" to admit it.

Dr. McTaggart Cowan says the dye job doesn't bother the birds.

"But if we knew who was doing it, and where, we could get some idea of how far these particular gulls get to... we'd like the person responsible to come forward and identify himself. He's got the Provincial Museum, Vancouver and Victoria Natural History Societies, the B.C. game department, the bird-banders and the wildlife section interested in what he's doing."

Police Clamp Down

DUNCAN—Donald Graham, of Duncan, was fined $15 in police court Friday for driving a motor vehicle without licence plates.

He was fined a further $12 when he pleaded guilty to travelling to the police station in a motor vehicle with plates not issued for that car.

In the same court, Wilfred Bomford, of Duncan, pleaded guilty to allowing the use of dealers' plates contrary to restrictions, and was fined $22.

Indian Rec Centre Proposed for Port

PORT ALBERNI—First step towards establishing an Indian Friendship Centre was taken at a meeting held here this week.

More than 30 persons, representing a large number of Alberni Valley organizations, appointed Dr. Harry Webster and Bill Beckingham to head a pro-tem ways and means committee to get the centre started.

The meeting was arranged and chaired by Mayor Les Hammer of Port Alberni, who stressed the need for a common meeting ground for Indians and whites, especially teenagers from isolated reserves.

The mayor pointed out the Friendship Centre would provide an opportunity for interested people in the community to help the Indians.

Spin 'Round Block Costs Lad Licence

A drive three times around the block Friday morning cost James Ozard, 1411 Harrop, a total of $250 in the afternoon.

Charged with dangerous driving, the 19-year-old driver was also put off the road by having his licence suspended.

Saanich Constable Bill Stephenson was driving an unmarked police car when he saw Ozard speeding along Tolmie. He put on the siren and gave chase.

Ozard went three times around the block formed by Tolmie, Quadra, Finlayson and Glasgow at speeds up to 80 mph. He drove through stop signs all the way, according to police evidence, and almost hit two children playing on their tricycles.

When stopped, Ozard told Const. Stephenson he thought he was being chased by "a guy I had a beef with."

Said the magistrate: "Nothing I can say would have much effect. The only thing to do is take you off the road."

POLICE MASSACRE

Car Thieves Held

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga. (UPI)—Police rounded up car theft suspects for questioning today in the slaughter of three of their fellow officers, found Friday manacled with their own handcuffs and murdered with their own guns.

The bodies of the Gwinnett county officers, all of whom had wives and children, were found handcuffed together in a pine thicket.

They apparently had caught a band of auto thieves about 20 miles northeast of Atlanta.

Sheriff Quill Sammon, who said the murders were linked to a car theft ring, said "We have a real good lead. The murderers were known to the (slain) policemen."

Sammon, shaking with rage, said he believed the case should be solved in a matter of days.

State, county and Atlanta police joined in a massive investigation to solve the murders of officers Jerry R. Everett, 28; Ralph K. Davis, 49, and Marvin Jesse Gravit, 52.

The officers apparently died without a struggle. Two of the slain policemen were still wearing their caps when the bodies were found. Their holsters were empty.

Quarter of a mile away, the remains of a burned car, stolen earlier in Atlanta, was found.

WIDOW TELLS STRANGE STORY

Ginkgo Tree Falls Ill After Death of Owner

A miniature ginkgo tree, believed to be the only one of its kind in North America, is one of the chief attractions at the Vancouver Island Rock and Alpine Garden Society annual show which opened at Christ Church Memorial Hall Friday.

The show is open until 9:30 tonight.

The miniature potted tree has a strange history. It was grown from seed bought 23 years ago in Chinatown by the late Col. T. M. Knox, a lover of trees and an expert in the Japanese art of bonsai (potted dwarf tree-growing). He died last April.

The ginkgo, which normally grows to a height of about 100 feet in natural conditions, was entered by his widow, Mrs. Knox, 1318 Beach Drive.

STRANGE BEHAVIOR

Mrs. Knox said the miniature tree, trained and nursed through the years by her husband, behaved strangely after his death.

"It started to wilt and wither away," she said. "The housekeeper was about to throw it out when I took it into his room and started to look after it there. Then slowly the tree started to revive."

A smooth, sparingly branched tree, the ginkgo has been grown since ancient times about temples in China, where it is considered a sacred plant.

The ginkgo may be legitimately regarded as a "living fossil." It has existed essentially unchanged for millions of years, or probably, for a longer period than any other living tree.

HONORED POSITION

It is probably for this reason that the city decided to plant a ginkgo in centennial square this year.

The show features rare and attractive plants, including some colorful rhododendron.

Winners of major awards are as follows: Mrs. George Silburn, the Dr. C. T. Hilton Cup awarded to the exhibitor receiving the highest aggregate of points in the amateur section; Mrs. J. W. Forer, the Mrs. Biggerstaff Wilson trophy for the most outstanding plant suitable to a rock garden; E. H. Lohbrunner, Christensen's Cup for the rarest plant; Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Holland, Will and Marjorie Pemberton trophy for the most outstanding rhododendron.

Mrs. W. R. Macmillan, the Jeffries Cup for the highest aggregate of points in the novice class; Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Lythgoe, Alan Brooks Mordill trophy for the best native plant; Mrs. H. R. Hanson, Barton trophy for the best plant of primula polyanthus grown by an amateur; V. H. Ahler, the Lohbrunner trophy, best plant for woodland garden; V. H. Ahler, the VII and AGS perpetual trophy for the most meritorious plant.

In the junior section, Lindsay Boyd took the Mrs. H. R. Heavens Cup for children over 12; and Jillie Boyd, under 12.

Our swallows, one elegant pair, arrived in sunshine between showers on Wednesday; and as further proof that the season's getting along, the jolly elves of Saanich engineering department have again drawn themselves to our attention.

The daffy municipality — I refer, of course, to its host of golden daffodils — last year undertook to change the pocket-marked face of Arbutus Road. My tax money ran out before they could get the job finished, however, so the operation was halted with the patient still on the table.

But the boys are back now, returned with the swallows, and on Thursday afternoon, they fixed us proper.

What they did was plug my home stretch of Arbutus at both ends.

Half an hour and several miles later, I weaselled through a barrier only less formidable than the Berlin Wall to a reunion with chick, child, and busy swallows.

They may let us out again, sometime. But wishful thinking won't feed a captive population. If this message gets through, I urge Oak Bay to forget past differences and mount an air-lift.

Earlier this month, I told you about amateur short wave station VE7MT and the good work done during the Anchorage communications emergency by ham operator Bill Martin of 3501 Doncaster.

Not all the messages that wing out from Bill's radio shack are grim, however.

In the town of Navajo, Sonora, lives Luis Salido, call letters XE2II. Last year, it was decided that his 15-year-old niece, Emma Cecilia Ruiz of Huatabampo, should perfect her English at a Canadian school.

Ham operators Salido and Martin consulted by short wave, and presently the pretty senorita was enrolled at St. Ann's Academy. Often enough to keep her from growing homesick for Mexico, she drops in at VE7MT, and through Uncle Luis' XE2II, enjoys a radio visit with her people.

"My wife and I drove down to Mexico at the end of February," says Bill Martin, "and spent three weeks there.

"The highlight of our trip was a visit with Emma's family. They gave us a reception we'll never forget."

There's no special reason why I should entertain thoughts of horse-racing, unless it's because the track at our nice little Sandowne bullring looked to be in good shape when we drove past a while ago.

But a tale does come to mind, told me by an earnest local handicapper.

Once, as our guy spins it, he had a female relative of the vaguer sort whom we might as well call Aunt Minnie.

Among Aunt Minnie's most prized possessions was a doodle-bug, or plumb-bob, which is the top-shaped weight dangled by builders to achieve a vertical line. Aunt Minnie's habit was to suspend the doodle-bug over her plate, and from its gyrations, glean a psychic forecast of how the food would agree with her tetchy digestion.

Presently she began to apply these doodle-bug readings to penny stocks, far-out promotions and other investments that could only lead to ruin.

And did they? Well, our pony-fancier insists Aunt Minnie increased her substance faster than he could lose his on the platters.

After brooding on this phenomenon for a spell, a great light burst on him. He slipped the paper to the Golden Gate entries and hunted up Aunt Minnie.

"Certainly not!" the old lady snapped. "I couldn't put my doodle-bug to such a wicked use. You know how I hate gambling!"

SPIKY FACE of James Bay—from air—will expand steadily as the high-rise apartment race accelerates. Photo by Bill Halkett shows the five high-rise apartments that have been built in the past three years to provide more than 300 living units with sweeping views of the city, Sooke Hills and Olympic Mountains. Within the next year there will be at least three more poking upwards in the same area and the high-rise network will have spread to the Esquimalt border where a series is planned overlooking West Bay. Photo shows, from the left, Regent Towers, Goodacre Towers, Bickerton Court, Beacon Towers and Seaview Towers. Construction of another high-rise already is under way near Regent Towers and sites are being cleared for two more near Goodacre Towers and Seaview Towers. Several others are on the drawing boards of hopeful developers and two commercial high-rise structures are planned for the Douglas-Humboldt Street area later this year.

EXPLOSION KILLS WELDER

An explosion aboard an oil barge today killed a 37-year-old welder in Port Alberni.

Edgar Charles Brady, Lakeshore Road, Alberni, died shortly after the blast which shook the surrounding area.

Police said Mr. Brady was repairing a privately-owned barge tied to the Government assembly wharf when the accident occurred at 9:30 a.m.

The barge was badly damaged.

The explosion brought a large crowd to the scene. Many residents thought an oil tank had blown up and feared a major waterfront fire.

3 RESCUED FROM REEF NEAR TRIAL

The owner and his two sons were rescued at noon today from the troller, Little Dipper, off Oak Bay Golf Club.

Oak Bay Marina operator Robert Wright responded to a police call when the 24-foot inland troller was noticed grounded on Mowatt Reef, north of Trial Island.

He took the owner Cyprien Cote, 951 Jasmine, off the vessel. Sons Ken, 12 and Craig, 10, had already been rescued by another small boat operator.

Experimental Farm Opens New Studies On Grape Potential

By HUMPHRY DAVY

A program to make Vancouver Island a major commercial grape-producing centre has been launched by the Dominion Experimental Farm at Saanichton.

The project has the backing of the Saanich and coastal wine industries and fruit growers.

Harry Anderson, director, said tests are being conducted on 15 varieties to find out the most suitable grapes for planting on the Island.

Most of the varieties, originating from France and West Germany, are being tested for early maturing, sugar content and hardiness.

Two year wait Results should be known in the next two years, he said.

"We are after grapes which will mature in late August instead of September," he said.

He said prospects for growing grapes on a commercial scale for both wine and table use are good, and like loganberries, the fruit could become a major crop within a few years.

Okanagan grape experts, who investigated growing conditions on Vancouver Island recently, are also confident that some varieties will do well on the Island.

The Saanich wine industry which imports its grapes from the Okanagan Valley is interested in the farm's project as it would cut down costs if the fruit was grown locally.

NO-MARKET While grape culture is not new to the Island, the fruit was never grown to any extent mainly because of the lack of a commercial market. Knowledge of suitable varieties was also limited.

But the expansion of coastal wineries, and the increased

Precious Pills Lost To Thief

A Richmond woman's health is in danger because a medicine needed in emergencies was stolen out of her car in Beacon Hill Park this morning.

The medicine, needed for attacks caused by earlier arsenic poisoning, is dangerous to children. A reward is offered for its return.

Mrs. James W. Watson, visiting here from Richmond, B.C., said three bottles of pills prescribed for her by a Portland physician were in a large black alligator handbag. It was stolen from the car while she and her husband were looking at the flowers in Beacon Hill Park.

"Our car was parked near the ladies' restroom," she said. "We only left it about 10 minutes, but when we returned the handbag had gone from the front seat."

Mr. Watson, a Vancouver real estate man, said they did not bother to lock the car because "we always have a safe feeling in Victoria."

DOCTOR IN PORTLAND Mrs. Watson said the medicine was prescribed for her by Dr. John Frink of the Permanente Clinic in Portland. But she could not reach him today.

"I am supposed to have it with me at all times," she said. "It is of no use to anyone else and could be dangerous if taken by children. I hope whoever has the bag will return this medicine. I don't care about anything else inside it."

Mrs. Watson said the bag also contained $10 or $15 in cash and some personal documents.

After the bag was taken, she and her husband drove to Victoria city police station and gave full details to Detective Douglas Grant.

Mrs. Watson said she would try and contact Dr. David Robertson in Richmond, who might be able to provide a temporary prescription suited to her needs.

OPEN COURT FOR YOUTHS

Two youths charged with 14 burglaries have been transferred from juvenile court to stand trial in magistrate's court.

They are Donald Merke, 17, of 3334 Tillicum Road, and Lawrence Parker, 16, of 3334 Rolston Crescent. The two of them were remanded this morning without plea until Monday.

Magistrate J. A. Byers set bail at $300 for Parker. The Crown alleges all the burglaries of which the pair are accused occurred in March of this year.

Dimes Shower Opens May 1

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes will officially open the 25th annual Shower of Dimes organized by the Queen Alexandra Solarium Junior League for May 1.

This is one of four projects through which the league will contribute to the $150,000 required by the Solarium every year.

Throughout the month of May, blue and gold umbrellas will be set up in business establishments to catch the donations of passers-by, and a tag day will be held on May 30.

LABOR DEPARTMENT SAYS:

Negotiators Won't Give Up

Provincial labor officials are "not going to throw in the towel" on the 74-day shipyard strike, says Labor Minister Leslie Peterson.

Both sides will need some time to assess their positions in the wake of Friday's union refusal of a proposal by Deputy Labor Minister William Sands, he said.

"We are still ready to provide any assistance that might be required," said Mr. Peterson.

He indicated neither side has asked for appointment of an arbitrator.

Mr. Sands' proposal was for a wage increase of 12 cents an hour each year of a three-year contract.

Rank and file union men voted it down, with 85.6 per cent of the 2,000 strikers against it.

Unions have indicated they will settle for nothing less than a 15-cent-an-hour increase.

Victoria Chamber of Commerce president E. E. Pearlman said today the strike should have been settled long ago.

He says he hopes something can be worked out "to get the men back to work and the companies operating for the good of the community at large."

He said the chamber is disappointed a settlement has not been possible.

Three big shipyards are affected by the strike, which involves 22 unions.

YOUTH IN COMA AFTER 7 WEEKS

A 17-year-old youth injured in an auto accident seven weeks ago is still unconscious at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

The condition of Larry Williams, 2912 Quadra, is unchanged, the hospital reported today. He was hurt when the car he was in went out of control at Maplewood near Camrose Crescent.

SWIFTSURE RULING SURE SLOW

Still Not Decided Who Won 1963 Race

This year's Swiftsure yachting classic may be over before the winner of the 1963 race is known.

"It's a shocking, unfortunate situation," says the 1964 race committee chairman F. A. C. Piddington of Royal Victoria Yacht Club.

Just who won last year's race won't be known until the Canadian Yachting Association rules on a protest by Lol Killam of Vancouver.

If he is upheld, winner will be Winsome III, owned by Ches Rickard of Vancouver.

If his protest is turned down, Bob Regan of Seattle, and his Thetis, will be declared winner. He said protest of this nature are not uncommon, "but this is the first time a protest has affected the winning boats."

Thetis is a veteran contender in the Swiftsure, and was the first boat home last year in the BB class, edging out larger boats on the basis of corrected time.

There were 78 entries in the 1963 Swiftsure, and organizers are certain this year's race will have a bigger field.

ENDS HERE

The 176-mile race starts at Brothie Ledge and goes up the Island's west coast to a Swiftsure marker, then back to Victoria harbor.

Boats will rendezvous in the Inner Harbor on May 29, and start at 9:30 a.m. the next day.

First boat home in last year's race—an almost windless one—was the big sloop Adios, owned by Carl Jensen of Seattle, which finished the course in 30 hours, 12 minutes and 48 seconds.

 Mr. Evans' sermon Sunday morning will lead off the day's discussion on the subject "Changing Morality in Today's Society."
 Panelists James Mair, Victoria, Dr. Glen Stewart, Nanaimo, and Mrs. James Lunan, Courtenay, will discuss the sermon and general discussion will follow.
 The conference opens with a luncheon at the Union Centre Saturday where the day's sessions will be held. On Sunday the service will be held at the Optimist Hall, 106 Superior St.

Last Hour Made Real In Exhibit

A report from Washington, D.C., world headquarters of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, received by members here, announces near completion of its exhibit in the Protestant and Orthodox Centre of the New York World's Fair.
 Installation is scheduled for the week of April 13.
 Using a dramatic new technique called Illumi-drama, the exhibit takes the viewer right into the scenes expected in Earth's last hour.
 Stereophonic sound, moving light, and three-dimensional effects combine with a backdrop oil painting curving 20 feet across and 10 feet high, to graphically present the second coming of Christ as described in Holy Scripture.
 The drama occurs in four minute cycles and will be continuous from the time the fair gates open at 9:30 in the morning until 10 p.m. or later.
 A specially prepared recording of sound effects will be given all adult visitors. No literature will be given out unless requested by individual visitors.

Being first performers in the first folk dance class last Monday morning, didn't bother these four Grade 3 dancers from Lampson Street School. Their look of happy expectation was justified as it turned out for their entry, "Gustaf's Skoof" gained them a mark of 83 and a place in the dance honor program last Wednesday night. From left, they are Debarra Reid, Alan Radley, Lauril Olson and Richard Marshall. There was a total of 80 in their group representing two divisions under teachers Mrs. Maude Lendrum and Mrs. Faye Benwell.

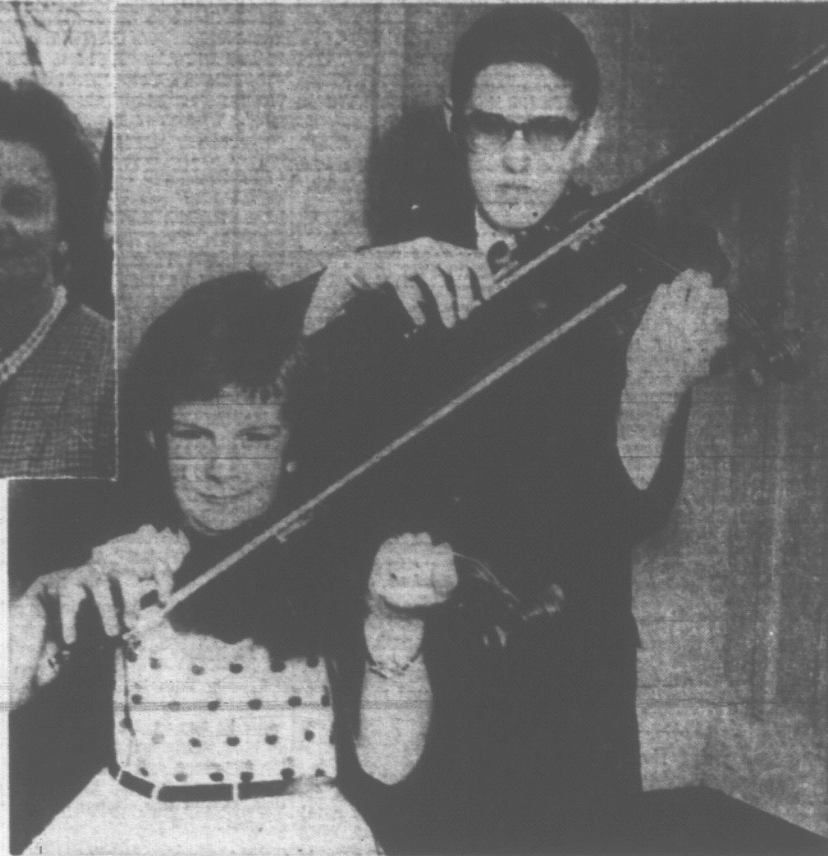

Among the most fascinating of the junior classes held this week were those for rhythm bands and elementary instrumental groups. From participation in such ensembles, the youngest children develop a sense of rhythm, improve their ear for music and learn to enjoy playing together. St. Margaret's School has a special interest in this form of music making in the primary grades. Four youngsters representing the school's three entries seen here are Gary Chatten, with triangle; Wendy Matson playing the dulcimer, and Pamela Sherwin and Carla Alexis with recorders.

Don't you talk to me about cats, says Rat to Alice. The scene, of course, is from Alice in Wonderland and rehearsing it for their speech arts entry Tuesday afternoon are sisters Pamela (left) as Rat and Catherine Creed as Alice. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Creed, Shelbourne Street.

Adult and piano and vocal solo section of the festival begins Monday and one of its feature attractions and most warmly contested classes is the women's operatic. Among a group of experienced singers who will meet in friendly but keen competition Tuesday evening, are, left to right, Rosalie Conarroe, Adele Lewis and Margaret Christison.

This was Wendy Hunt's first festival, but more experienced big brother Darien, 13, earned 94 marks as a junior soloist and shared a bursary award with Barbara Ann Court. Parents are Dr. and Mrs. J. W. E. Hunt, Foul Bay Road. Mrs. Hunt, a violinist, is well known as assistant concert master of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra and frequent soloist.

MUSIC FOR ALL AGES

The 1964 Greater Victoria Music Festival opened last Monday, April 13, and continued all this week with classes for public and private schools in dance, instrumental and choral music, bands and orchestras. The first phase concluded Friday night with a schools honor program which also marked the official opening with Deputy Provincial Secretary Laurie J. Wallace giving the address.

Next Monday morning at 9 a.m., the second phase begins, with piano, junior and adult vocal solo classes, organ, accordion and adult choir sessions. Victoria Music Festival is one of the few on this continent which includes speech art. This section has always drawn a large number of entries and occupies three full days this year, ending with its own honor performance concert Thursday night at Christ Church Memorial Hall, Vancouver Street.

Three hundred and twenty-six entries in piano, not including duet and two-piano work, pose a formidable task for the adjudicator. Adult vocal solo classes are less well favored this year but top classes in popularity—men's and women's operatic and oratorio, folk song and concert group, show some competition. There is interesting competition too in several of the adult and junior church choir classes and an old favorite, the Arion Male Voice Choir returns, singing next Thursday night.

Only two trophies have been retained in competition, held over from the pre-Second World War festival when trophies and medals were the principal awards. The two are the Rose Bowl, vocal championship emblem, and the City of Victoria Medallion, awarded for top performance by a pianist. Both these trophies are contested for by three or four of the week's major winners in special contests at the final honor performance concert, to be held Friday night this year at Central Junior Secondary School. Awards are made—and occasionally withheld—at the discretion of the adjudicators.

All other awards are in the form of bursaries, scholarships and book prizes, with the exception of the Henry Birks' prize of a watch. The Music Festival Association itself makes a series of bursaries available each year, the number and amounts varying depending on the extent of public support in ticket sales. Victoria Music Festival is not and has never been sponsored by an outside group, nor requested any financial aid. Its operation has been maintained continuously on the credit side of the ledger since its reorganization after the war years.

Honorary president, and indefatigable worker for the festival in many offices, including several terms as president, is Mrs. William Ellis. This year's executive is headed by Miss Ulah B. Jacobson. Immediate past president is John R. L. Hayes. Dr. J. F. K. English, who was first president of the reorganized festival association, and served several terms in that capacity, is—and has been for the past few years—treasurer.

There is also a secretariat headed by Mrs. Violet Berringer and Mrs. Betty McColl and consisting of Mrs. G. W. Graham, Mrs. R. T. Kipling and Mrs. F. P. Levins. Responsible for all the numerous and complicated details of programming and planning are, among others, past president Harry J. Bigsby, Mrs. James M. Gayfer (chairman of awards), Miss Nancy Ferguson, Mrs. H. P. Mickelson and Frank Tupman. J. Ingram Smith is clerk of the festival and official accompanists are Mrs. Margaret Dixon and Mrs. M. Reynolds.

Adjudicators who will preside at sessions during the current week are Robert Irwin (vocal solo and choral), one of the Canadian Festival chain adjudicators, a well-known BBC commentator on music with wide adjudicating and performing experience throughout the British Isles; Leslie G. Murchie (piano and organ), also a chain adjudicator who for some years has been one of the examiners for the Guildhall School of Music in London; Anthony Holland (speech arts), a noted Vancouver drama personality with 20 years' experience as a director and drama coach and as an adjudicator in England, and E. Sehuss (accordion), arranger and composer for the accordion.

Arranged by Audrey St. Denys Johnson
Times Music Critic

An immense amount of organization and administration detail involves Victoria Festival Association executive for months prior to the opening of the festival with many hours of careful work. Then when the festival gets under way the pressure becomes extreme for those concerned with its operation. In the temporary office at St. Andrew's Kirk Hall, festival secretary Mrs. J. F. K. English, left, and president Miss Ulah B. Jacobson work at fever pitch to keep pace with results and iron out inevitable difficulties to keep everything running smoothly.

A happy group which on any occasion gives as much pleasure to its audience as it obviously gets from singing is the Vera Barclay choir. Mrs. Barclay, left, one of the city's prominent vocal teachers and choral directors, has made festival entries and scored many successes over the past several years, including the winning of the major CBC performance award. This year the group will be vying again for the top honor in a class with the Lake Cowichan Ladies' Choir, and Don Kyle Singers as their competitors.

DEAR ABBY . . .

She Learned a Lesson!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Over the past five years I have done so many favors for my neighbor I can't count them. I have kept her children weekends while she went on trips with her husband. I've been a free taxi service for her because she had no car. I've given her at least a dozen home permanents, and I have never asked her for one favor until

DEAR FLABBERGASTED: I think it was appropriately "curtains" for your friendship. Next time you do a friend a favor, don't assume it puts her in your debt, and you won't be flabbergasted.

DEAR ABBY: For the past two weeks a man has been calling my home. As soon as he hears my voice he starts with a string of filthy questions. I hang up on him. Now when my phone rings I can tell that someone is on the other end, but he never says anything. He just ties up my line. Should I report this to the police, or to the telephone company?

NOT LOOKING FOR TROUBLE.

DEAR NOT LOOKING: The next time he calls, send someone quickly to the neighbors and have them report it to both the telephone company and the police. If this can be done while he is still on your line, the call can be traced.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is the obvious favoritism shown for our first-born by his paternal grandmother. We lived with my in-laws when he was born, and my husband's mother went completely overboard about the child. When our second baby came along, Grandma was so partial to the first that we had to be constantly on our guard, so the little one would not be hurt. It's not my imagination, Abby, everybody notices it, and many have commented. She'll go all out for gifts for the big one, and gives the little one some cheap little trinket. I am mostly interested in having both children love their Grandma. Should I mention it to her? If so, how should I phrase it?

NAMELESS, NATURALLY.

DEAR NAMELESS: Ask your husband to tell his mother what she is doing, perhaps unwittingly. You keep out of it. Eventually the children will make their own evaluation, on their own terms and in their own way.

DEAR ABBY: What makes a pastor think he can stand in the pulpit and insult a member of his parish week after week, and get away with it? I have sat there, fighting back the tears while he has aimed his remarks directly to me and to me alone. He has done everything except mention my name. I am getting tired of this. What do you suggest?

INSULTED. There is an old saying, "If the shoe fits wear it." Too many shoes fit. Perhaps you should do a little "soul-searching."

Get it off your chest. For a personal unpublished reply, write to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. Enclosed a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Trans-Atlantic air fares now lower . . .

Everybody in Paulin's Travel Service was busy as a beaver when we went snooping around this week for news from the travel front . . . Ever since the new lower fares to Europe went into effect on April 1 . . . would-be travellers have been dropping in to make enquiries, book passages, and quite literally put themselves in the capable hands of Paulin's . . . And really it does your heart good to see how interested these much-travelled Paulin people are in arranging perfect trips for their clients . . . (all of which service, incidentally, does not cost the client an extra 5-cent piece!) Anyway, to get back to airline Atlantic fares . . . they're really plummeted . . . You can travel T.C.A. direct from Vancouver to London and return for $519.50 on a 21-day excursion . . . or $618.50 during "thrift seasons" . . . This is Economy class, of course, but if you really want to do it up in style and travel First . . . the reduction in fare over last year is about $100 . . . In the case of Economy Class, there are certain periods when these stated fares don't apply . . . so we advise you to talk it over with Paulin's and get all the details we can't begin to give you here . . . Another advantage, Paulin's will not only gladly book your air passage, but make all your hotel and travel arrangements once you get there . . . # Beacon Hill Park Bows Out To Her Rival In Montana

By PAT DUFOUR

These days, when our Beacon Hill Park is at its finest, I'm almost prepared to agree it's the best to be seen anywhere—but not quite!

It has a rival in the mid-western state of Montana. There, in the centre of a small town called Havre is the one park that could elbow Beacon Hill Park out of my affections.

After all, how many people can boast of having had a town park as a "motel." Yet, this happened to the Dufour family on a motoring trip from Ottawa to Victoria, via the United States!

We decided to tent the five-day run after enquiries pointed up the fact that motel-keepers were not overly enthusiastic about our pet—an over-sized Siberian husky.

Until we reached Havre things had gone well, in spite of the fact that we were "roadies."

All day long we had driven past oil derricks and wheat fields, anticipating a rest when we reached the campsite that, according to our map, was three miles east of the town.

It turned out to be a patch of dirt and yellowed grass, peppered with broken bottles and as devoid of water taps as the Sahara Desert!

After making a fruitless round of the town's trailer camps and an equally frustrating run the other side of the town, we realized we were in trouble. It was 8 p.m. on a Sunday evening and the glories of camping were beginning to wear a little!

We headed for the police station, to seek help from the burly sergeant and policeman we found there.

After hearing us out, they went into a conference. Minutes later, with a "Follow me!" the police sergeant led us outside. We piled into our car, and with camping gear flapping from the rack, followed the police car.

Siren blaring, the car piloted us around the town. And I must admit that a police siren sounds much more friendly when heard from the rear!

In no time at all, we were at the park gates. Our friend showed us the communal showers and pointing to a particularly colorful bed of petunias, suggested we should pitch tent alongside it!

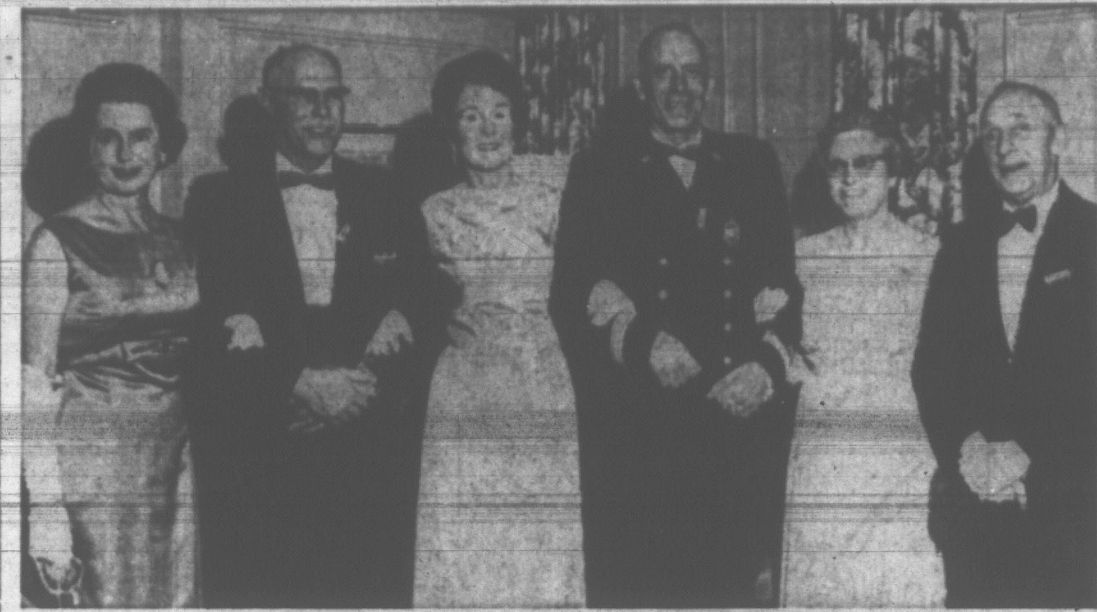

Hardly waiting to be thanked, he was in his car and off. We felt like nomads as we made camp, prepared a meal and pumped air mattresses.

We felt even more odd as some of the town's families, enjoying a quiet evening in the park, came over to watch the operation and to try to figure out these strange Canadians, who preferred a "wolf" instead of the conventional spaniel or French poodle.

Having discovered we were from British Columbia, one middle-aged man told the rest of the audience that ours was a typical "wild dog" of our area.

Eventually, we were alone and, soon after, in our sleeping bags. With the pungent scent of petunias in our nostrils, we slept well, waking only briefly when our friends from the police station did the odd patrol to make sure that all was well.

May I repeat, Beacon Hill Park is almost the best park in North America!

Record Crowd Has Fun at Firemen's Ball

Close to 500 dancers crowded the Crystal Ballroom of the Empress Hotel, Friday evening, for the Firemen's Ball. It was one of the largest crowds to attend in the 49 years the Victoria Firemen's Mutual Benefit Society has held the annual affair.

Dresses were colorful, running the gamut from bouffantskirted formals to slim sheath gowns in short length. Male dancers' clothes were as varied, including firemen's uniforms, "tails," tuxedos and the dress uniforms of the three armed services.

Charlie Hunt's orchestra played for dancing and the grand march was stirring led by musicians from the First Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles.

Leading the grand march were acting-mayor Alderman Arthur Dowell and Mrs. John Abbott, Fire Chief Abbott and Mrs. Dowell.

Several firemen and their wives came from Vancouver. They included Fire Chief R. R. Jacks and Mrs. Jacks. Other special guests included Commodore A. G. Boulton and Mrs. Boulton, Lt. Col. H. C. F. Elliot and Mrs. Elliot, Police Chief J. F. Gregory and Mrs. Gregory, E. Simmons, president of the Sixth District of International Firefighters, and Mrs. Simmons, H. Wright, Vancouver, commissioner of the compensation board of British Columbia, and Mrs. Wright.

Making a brief visit to the ball, 10 attractive contestants who had just been chosen as finalists in the current Miss Victoria Contest, were introduced to the guests and received a warm ovation.

Serving on the ball committee were Bill Jones, society president; Daryl Woodburn, ball manager; Richard Warner, master of ceremonies; Don Thompson, George Robertson, decorations; Lt. Harry Marrison and Mrs. Marrison, reception.

AWARD WINNER

Mrs. Sharon Chernoff was presented with the award for best bedside nursing when the eighth class of practical nurses took part in a graduation ceremony at Holyrood House, Thursday afternoon. ## Grandfather Assists At Ceremony

Rev. A. H. Rowe assisted Rev. H. Pike at the ceremony in Church-by-the-Lake Friday evening, in which his granddaughter, Valerie Blair and Alan Douglas Cunningham exchanged marriage vows.

The church was decorated with dogwood blossoms and baskets of spring flowers. Organist was Miss Edna Middleton.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Gordon Blair, 4350 Douglas Street, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Cunningham, Hamsterly Road. Mr. Blair gave his daughter in marriage.

A floor-length gown of rustling silk taffeta was worn by the bride. It was styled with sweetheart neckline, long lily point sleeves and full skirt that extended into a slight train. The gown was enhanced with hand-embroidered Guipure lace appliques. A tulle veil misted from a gardenia head ornament. Only jewelry was a necklace of pearls, gift of the groom. American beauty roses with tiny trailing buds backed by white carnations were in the bouquet.

Mrs. L. R. Cornelius was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a ballerina-length gown of rose taffeta and carried a bouquet of turquoise-tinted carnations.

Similar gowns of turquoise taffeta were choice of bridesmaids, Miss Sharon Williams, and junior bridesmaid, Miss Barbara Cunningham, sister of the groom. Both wore corsages in pink tones.

All three attendants wore headpieces en tone. Jim Cunningham was best man for his brother and guests were ushered to their pews by Mike O'Sullivan and Peter Blair, brother of the bride.

F. Willway, Glen Lake, proposed the toast at a reception in Surfside 62 Restaurant. An arrangement of sweetheart roses in a beautiful cut-glass bowl centred the bride's table. Following a honeymoon trip travelling down the Pacific coast, the couple will make their home at 5443 Hamsterly Road, Elk Lake.

The bride's going-away outfit was a powder-blue two-piece wool boucle suit with natural camel hair coat, matching blue hat and coffee-beige accessories.

YWCA NOTES

Twilight Singers—The Silver Threads Club was recently entertained at a concert by the YWCA Twilight Singers. The group is planning another concert to be presented to the James Bay Golden Age Club on April 28. Group presents at least two concerts a month, free of charge to any organization requesting their services.

Seven-week-old Michael Jon Essery makes his photographic debut in this four-generation picture. He wears the 200-year-old gown (worn by all those in the picture) in which he'll be baptized at a ceremony in HMCS Sussexvale's ward-room Sunday afternoon. Baby is the second son of Sub-Lt. Thomas Essery and Mrs. Essery of Richmond Road. Seen with the tiny principal are, left to right: His maternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Harry Day; Thomas Jeffers Essery, Mrs. Essery and the maternal grandmother, Mrs. Jon Pettersen, Foul Bay Road. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Essery of Toronto. Chaplain E. P. A. Timmins will officiate at the ceremony which will be followed by a reception. (Chapman Photography)

Floor-length polished cotton cocktail dress in turquoise, gold, copper, lime, sun yellow and sage green is worn by Mrs. William A. West, at left, as she prepares for guests in her Uplands Road home. It's a Brenner of London design. At right, Betty West relaxes in a crisp cotton pique version of this original two-way hostess dress. Domed up to short length, horizontal stripes disappear from view.

IN STEP WITH STYLE

By NONA DAMASKE

Two-In-One Theme Is 'In' for Spring

Two-for-one fashion gives many more wearings per dollar in a group of most attractive hostess dresses which arrived recently in one of our specialty shops.

Designed in London by Brenner in polished cotton or crisp cotton pique these dresses would be equally attractive for outdoor patio entertaining, indoor parties, resort or cruise wear.

So often when a fashion has a two-way theme it is gimmicky and troublesome but not this time. When domed up, the skirt takes on a bell-like shape and has an unpressed hem. The unpressed hemline is a fashion feature this season and appears on many smart dresses which do not change their length.

Our model, Mrs. William A. West, and her husband are hoping, in the not too far distant future, to take a Caribbean cruise and Mrs. West is wise enough to realize the usefulness of the two dresses which she wears in today's picture.

These simply-styled good-looking dresses would be at home, on a warm day, anywhere in the world.

In the same shop I found a shift, extremely simple in line but fashioned in the most intriguing fabric. By Frederick Starke of London it is of heavy pure silk crepe in a mad, mad tangerine with a design of black apples.

In the field of fashion, the colorful fun time is just ahead... if you long for a fling with color now is the time. Everywhere you turn in the stores you are faced with brilliant colors that are just waiting to be part of a hot sunny summer... weatherman please take note!

U.S. HOPES TO END ARMY DRAFT SOON

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced today a sweeping study which he said could result in elimination of the military draft in the U.S. in the next 10 years.

Johnson, holding a press conference in his office, was asked whether this meant a possible cutback in the size of the armed forces.

He said that he hoped tensions could be eased, disarmament achieved and some of the resources now devoted to national security be spent "on a better society and a greater society."

At the outset of the session, Johnson described as "totally inaccurate" a published report that he would announce Monday plans for a 45-per-cent cutback in the production of fissionable materials for nuclear weapons.

AFTER 18 DAYS

Belgian MDs Back at Work

BRUSSELS (AP)—The Belgian government today ordered demobilization of military reserve doctors as Belgium's 12,000 physicians and dentists returned to their offices after an 18-day strike.

The interior and defence ministries directed all doctors called to active duty last Sunday to report immediately to provincial commanders for demobilization. The order was broadcast by the state radio.

The strike ended even though the dispute over a new socialized medicine law which caused it remained unresolved.

The doctors agreed to meet with the government next Wednesday in an attempt to settle their differences over the controversial legislation.

Belgium's embattled medical profession agreed to call off the strike after 15½ hours of intensive negotiations during which the rectors of Belgium's four universities acted as intermediaries.

Afterwards Premier Theo Lefevre said "conditions now are ripe to reach a prompt agreement on the law would leave no bitterness."

LABOR BACKS PLAN

The government is under strong pressure from Belgium's labor unions to resist major changes in the law which would give more than half of Belgium's 9,000,000 people free medical care or require them to pay only a token charge.

The doctors claim their offices would be flooded with cranks imagining ailments, hospital facilities would become overcrowded considerable book-keeping would be involved and the set fees are too low.

At the start of the walkout, the doctors organized their own emergency hospital service. The government later called up doctors in the military reserves and took over the service.

The service provided the country with a reasonably good level of medical care but as the doctors ended the strike the emergency service showed signs of collapse.

Hundreds of nurses have worked hours that would collapse many men.

RUSK

Attempt To Murder Rusk Feared

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. and South Vietnamese security forces braced today for a possible attempt on the life of U.S. State Secretary Rusk amid reports that Viet Cong suicide squads might make such a move. The massive air-ground security net thrown around Rusk was tightened after a terrorist bomb was tossed into a military bus early today wounding two U.S. servicemen.

One intelligence report said a Communist suicide squad planned a grenade assassination like that used to kill Thap Than, Vietnamese governor-general under the former French regime after the end of the Second World War.

Police intelligence reports, said the Communist Viet Cong planned a wave of bomb explosions in Saigon during the three-day Rusk visit. The bombs were to be directed at electrical transformers around the city, U.S. military installations and American vehicles.

TIMMINS' CLAIMS

'Copter Watcher Millionaire Now

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP)—Ned Bragagnolo is a big man in Timmins these days.

With the major copper-zinc-silver discovery here he has parlayed $7,000 into something approaching $2,000,000.

And that is not bad for the son of a poor Italian immigrant family.

"I came from a poor family," Ned says. "We never starved or anything, but after my dad died we always had to hustle to make ends meet."

Bragagnolo, who owns a real estate firm here, started last November to stake 230 claims around the property where Texas Gulf Sulphur Company has hit one of the biggest bonanzas ever.

Asked how much he has made on his ventures, he just smiles and says he is not sure.

The 33-year-old millionaire, father of three children, started staking his claims after "seeing a Texas Gulf helicopter going by my house all the time."

His dealings have netted him not only cash but blocks of stock in mining companies.

He has sold claims to PCE Explorations, Bunker Hill Mining Company, Glenn Uranium, Bruce Presto Mines and Con-West Exploration. But the best is yet to come. Mr. Bragagnolo said: "I expect to close my biggest deal Monday."

He says that when all his deals are completed—so far he has sold 50 claims and has 30 companies bidding for the remaining 180—he will make as much again as he has so far.

Jet Crashes In Sandstorm; No Survivors

49 Aboard Lebanon Airliner

BAHREIN, Persian Gulf (AP)—A jetliner lost in a desert sandstorm overshoot the airport at Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, Friday night and crashed in the Persian Gulf with 49 persons aboard, including 23 Americans.

A U.S. Navy spokesman said a helicopter crew saw no survivors in the wreckage of the Middle East Airlines-Air Liban Caravelle jet spotted this morning in shallow water about 10 miles off the Arabian coast.

The spokesman said the search for survivors was continuing and that more helicopters and small boats had been sent to the crash site, where only one wing of the plane jutted above the waterline.

The twin-jet airliner went down in the Gulf about halfway between Dhahran, an oil city near the Arabian coast, and the archipelago of islands which make up this British-protected Arab sheikdom 15 miles offshore.

An airline spokesman in Beirut, Lebanon, where the flight originated, said the jetliner was flying over wind-whipped desert only three minutes northwest of Dhahran when radio contact was lost Friday.

RAN INTO STORM

The twin-jet airliner took off from Beirut on the two-hour non-stop flight to Dhahran and ran into the sandstorm near the end of the 1,100-mile hop.

Visibility was near zero when the plane began its approach for the night-time landing, then overflew the airport.

Passengers were reported to include 23 Americans, 11 Saudis, four Lebanese, one Syrian, one Bahraini, one Jordanian and one Palestinian. The crew consisted of five Lebanese, one French and one Swiss.

Dhahran, a comparatively modern desert city, is the heart of Saudi Arabia's multi-million-dollar oil operations and the headquarters of the Arabian American Oil Company (Aramco). There is a large American colony in Dhahran connected with Aramco.

Cuban Refugees Adrift on Ocean

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A small open boat with 19 Cuban refugees aboard — eight children, eight women and three men — was adrift in the rough Atlantic Ocean off Miami today, the U.S. Coast Guard reported.

A spokesman said five other Cubans in another small boat accompanying the missing craft were plucked to safety in a basket lowered from a helicopter Friday night.

The rescued refugees were described as cold but in good condition. The three men and two women, one of them five months pregnant, asked that their names be withheld.

The spokesman said the missing boat, a 27-footer, was towing the 20-foot boat occupied by those rescued when they were first sighted Thursday 100 miles south of here.

MILLIONAIRE SPENT LIFE IN HOVEL

TORONTO (CP)—An eccentric millionaire who preferred poverty to rich living was burned to death in suburban Scarborough Friday night when a candle he used for light set fire to a box of mortgages.

John Michael O'Day, 72, known as "Old Man O'Day" was found on the floor in his kitchen, the only furnished room in the dirty, two-story brick and frame home. The house had no electricity, no water, no toilet and no phone.

Police estimated Mr. O'Day held mortgages worth $1,000,000 and that his estate may total around $2,000,000.

SUFFER NO ILL EFFECTS YET

Island Pair Sleep in Death Sheets

By AB KENT

Two Vancouver Island youths discovered Friday they had slept between sheets from a shipment contaminated with a lethal chemical used to make military nerve gas.

Unlike two North Vancouver boys, they suffered no ill effects.

The two mainlanders, aged five and 11 years, were in comas for 18 hours after coming into contact with flannel sheets damaged by a powerful insecticide concentrate en route by ship from Antwerp.

Both are recovering in hospital after doctors discovered at the last minute what the poison was, enabling them to administer antidotes.

Altogether 500 sheets were disposed of through a salvage dealer in Vancouver, mostly in the Lower Mainland area, although some were sold to Echo Lodge rest home at Hilliers, central Vancouver Island.

All sheets were traced and warnings about them issued Friday night.

The Echo Lodge, operated by Mrs. Lillian Campbell, had not placed the sheets in general service.

"We got 10 pairs," said Fred Campbell, her son, "but only two were used, by my brother, Hugh, and me.

"They were washed first. We had a visit from the local health nurse about it and the health officer will be here on Monday to decide what to do with them."

The health authorities had launched a wide-spread search for 24 to 40 sheets unaccounted for Friday, and the missing ones turned up Friday night.

The investigation involved Vancouver quarantine officer Angus Mackie, North Vancouver MHO Dr. Lewis S. Anderson, local health services and the federal food and drug administration.

Dr. Anderson said the sheets were stained with a brown, oily insecticidal spray that leaked from a container on shipboard. It is of a type that is diluted with water and used as pest control in orchards and fields.

The concentrate resists washing, he said, and is known for its persistence.

"There was a case last year in California where a consignment of boys' jeans was contaminated and six youngsters were stricken."

Food and drug technicians discovered the substance was parathion, an organic phosphate that can be absorbed by the skin and enters the bloodstream and nervous system to produce a paralytic effect.

It may be destroyed by burning.

Mr. Mackie, who headed the task of tracing the sheets, said about 200 of the shipment actually bore stain marks and tests will be run on the others to see if they can be salvaged. He likened the spray to military counterpart phosgene, designed to be sprayed in a fine mist, the effect of which can be deadly.

Arthur Mayse

Our swallows, one elegant pair, arrived in sunshine between showers on Wednesday; and as further proof that the season's getting along, the jolly elves of Saanich engineering department have again drawn themselves to our attention.

The daily municipality — I refer, of course, to its host of golden daffodils — last year undertook to change the pocket-sized face of Arbutus Road. My tax money ran out before they could get the job finished, however, so the operation was halted with the patient still on the table.

But the boys are back now, returned with the swallows, and on Thursday afternoon, they fixed us proper.

What they did was plug my home stretch of Arbutus at both ends.

Half an hour and several miles later, I weaselled through a barrier only less formidable than the Berlin Wall to a reunion with chick, child, and busy swallows.

They may let us out again, sometime. But wishful thinking won't feed a captive population. If this message gets through, I urge Oak Bay to forget past differences and mount an air-lift.

Earlier this month, I told you about amateur short wave station VE1MT and the good work done during the Anchorage communications emergency by ham operator Bill Martin of 3501 Doncaster.

Not all the messages that wing out from Bill's radio shack are grim, however.

In the town of Navajo, Sonora, lives Luis Salido, call letters XE2H. Last year, it was decided that his 15-year-old niece, Emma Cecilia Ruiz de Hualteban, should perfect her English at a Canadian school.

Ham operators Salido and Martin consulted by short wave, and presently the pretty señorita was enrolled at St. Ann's Academy. Often enough to keep her from growing homesick for Mexico, she drops in at VE1MT, and through Uncle Luis' XE2H, enjoys a radio visit with her people.

"My wife and I drove down to Mexico at the end of February," says Bill Martin, "and spent three weeks there."

"The highlight of our trip was a visit with Emma's family. They gave us a reception we'll never forget."

There's no special reason why I should entertain thoughts of horse-racing, unless it's because the track at our nice little Sandowne bullring looked to be in good shape when we drove past a while ago.

But a tale does come to mind, told me by an earnest local handicapper.

Once, as our guy spins it, he had a female relative of the vaguer sort whom we might as well call Aunt Minnie.

Among Aunt Minnie's most prized possessions was a doodle-bug, or plumb-bob, which is the top-shaped weight dangled by builders to achieve a vertical line. Aunt Minnie's habit was to suspend the doodle-bug over her plate, and from its gyrations, glean a psychic forecast of how the food would agree with her tetchy digestion.

Presently she began to apply these doodle-bug readings to penny stocks, far-out promotions and other investments that could only lead to ruin.

And did they? Well, our pony-fancier insists Aunt Minnie increased her substance faster than he could lose his on the platters.

After brooding on this phenomenon for a spell, a great light burst on him. He flipped the paper to the Golden Gate entries and hunted up Aunt Minnie.

"Certainly not!" the old lady snapped. "I couldn't put my doodle-bug to such a wicked use. You know how I hate gambling!"

EXPLOSION KILLS WELDER

An explosion aboard an oil barge today killed a 37-year-old welder in Port Alberni.

Edgar Charles Brady, Lakeshore Road, Alberni, died shortly after the blast which shook the surrounding area.

Police said Mr. Brady was repairing a privately-owned barge tied to the Government assembly wharf when the accident occurred at 9:30 a.m.

The barge was badly damaged. The explosion brought a large crowd to the scene. Many residents thought an oil tank had blown up and feared a major waterfront fire.

3 RESCUED FROM REEF NEAR TRIAL

The owner and his two sons were rescued at noon today from the troller, Little Dipper, off Oak Bay Golf Club.

Oak Bay Marina operator Robert Wright responded to a police call when the 24-foot inland troller was noticed grounded on Mowatt Reef, north of Trial Island.

He took the owner Cyprien Cote, 951 Jasmine, off the vessel. Sons Ken, 12 and Craig, 10, had already been rescued by another small boat operator.

Experimental Farm Opens New Studies On Grape Potential

By HUMPHREY DAVY

A program to make Vancouver Island a major commercial grape-producing centre has been launched by the Dominion Experimental Farm at Saanichton.

The project has the backing of the Saanich and coastal wine industries and fruit growers.

Harry Anderson, director, said tests are being conducted on 15 varieties to find out the most suitable grapes for planting on the island.

Most of the varieties, originating from France and West Germany, are being tested for early maturing, sugar content and hardiness.

Two year wait. Results should be known in the next two years, he said.

"We are after grapes which will mature in late August instead of September," he said.

He said prospects for growing grapes on a commercial scale for both wine and table use are good, and like loganberries, the fruit could become a major crop within a few years.

Okanagan grape experts, who investigated growing conditions on Vancouver Island recently, are also confident that some varieties will do well on the island.

The Saanich wine industry which imports its grapes from the Okanagan Valley is interested in the farm's project as it would cut down costs if the fruit was grown locally.

NO MARKET. While grape culture is not new to the island, the fruit was never grown to any extent mainly because of the lack of a commercial market. Knowledge of suitable varieties was also limited.

But the expansion of coastal wineries, and the increased

Precious Pills Lost To Thief

A Richmond woman's health is in danger because a medicine needed in emergencies was stolen out of her car in Beacon Hill Park this morning.

The medicine, needed for attacks caused by earlier arsenic poisoning, is dangerous to children. A reward is offered for its return.

Mrs. James W. Watson, visiting here from Richmond, B.C., said three bottles of pills prescribed for her by a Portland physician were in a large black alligator handbag. It was stolen from the car while she and her husband were looking at the flowers in Beacon Hill Park.

"Our car was parked near the ladies' restroom," she said. "We only left it about 10 minutes, but when we returned the handbag had gone from the front seat."

Mr. Watson, a Vancouver real estate man, said they did not bother to lock the car because "we always have a safe feeling in Victoria."

DOCTOR IN PORTLAND. Mrs. Watson said the medicine was prescribed for her by Dr. John Frink of the Permanente Clinic in Portland. But she could not reach him today.

"I am supposed to have it with me at all times," she said. "It is of no use to anyone else and could be dangerous if taken by children. I hope whoever has the bag will return this medicine. I don't care about anything else inside it."

Mrs. Watson said the bag also contained $10 or $15 in cash and some personal documents.

After the bag was taken, she and her husband drove to Victoria city police station and gave full details to Detective Douglas Grant.

Mrs. Watson said she would try and contact Dr. David Robertson in Richmond, who might be able to provide a temporary prescription suited to her needs.

OPEN COURT FOR YOUTHS

Two youths charged with 14 burglaries have been transferred from juvenile court to stand trial in magistrate's court.

They are Donald Merke, 17, of 3534 Tillium Road, and Lawrence Parker, 16, of 3334 Rolston Crescent. The two of them were remanded this morning without plea until Monday.

Magistrate J. A. Byers set bail at $300 for Parker. The Crown alleges all the break-ins of which the pair are accused occurred in March of this year.

Dimes Shower Opens May 1

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes will officially open the 25th annual Shower of Dimes organized by the Queen Alexandra Solarium Junior League for May 1.

This is one of four projects through which the league will contribute to the $150,000 required by the Solarium every year.

Throughout the month of May, blue and gold umbrellas will be set up in business establishments to catch the donations of passers-by, and a tag day will be held on May 30.

LABOR DEPARTMENT SAYS:

Negotiators Won't Give Up

Provincial labor officials are "not going to throw in the towel" on the 74-day shipyard strike, says Labor Minister Leslie Peterson.

Both sides will need some time to assess their positions in the wake of Friday's union refusal of a proposal by Deputy Labor Minister William Sands, he said.

"We are still ready to provide any assistance that might be required," said Mr. Peterson.

He indicated neither side has asked for appointment of an arbitrator.

Mr. Sands' proposal was for a wage increase of 12 cents an hour each year of a three-year contract.

Rank and file union men voted it down, with 85.6 per cent of the 2,000 strikers against it.

Unions have indicated they will settle for nothing less than a 15-cent-an-hour increase.

Victoria Chamber of Commerce president E. E. Pearlman said today the strike should have been settled long ago.

He says he hopes something can be worked out "to get the men back to work and the companies operating for the good of the community at large."

He said the chamber is disappointed a settlement has not been possible.

Three big shipyards are affected by the strike, which involves 22 unions.

Still Not Decided Who Won 1963 Race

This year's Swiftsure yachting classic may be over before the winner of the 1963 race is known.

"It's a shocking, unfortunate situation," says the 1964 race committee chairman F. A. C. Piddington of Royal Victoria Yacht Club.

Just who won last year's race won't be known until the Canadian Yachting Association rules on a protest by Lol Killam of Vancouver.

If he is upheld, winner will be Winsome III, owned by Ches Rickard of Vancouver.

If his protest is turned down, Bob Regan of Seattle, and his Thetis, will be declared winner.

He said protest of this nature are not uncommon, "but this is the first time a protest has affected the winning boats."

Thetis is a veteran contender in the Swiftsure, and was the first boat home last year in the BB class, edging out larger boats on the basis of corrected time.

There were 78 entries in the 1963 Swiftsure, and organizers are certain this year's race will have a bigger field.

ENDS HERE

The 176-mile race starts at Brothie Ledge and goes up the island's west coast to a Swiftsure marker, then back to Victoria harbor.

Boats will rendezvous in the Inner Harbor on May 29, and start at 9:30 a.m. the next day.

First boat home in last year's race — an almost windless one — was the big sloop Adios, owned by Carl Jensen of Seattle, which finished the course in 30 hours, 12 minutes and 48 seconds.

For Winsome III to be declared winner would make Swiftsure history — because then the Vancouver boat would be the first ever to win three times in a row.

Mr. Regan was declared winner after the race, and Mr. Killam immediately filed a protest, concerning right of way.

His protest was upheld by a protest committee meeting here, then was turned down by an area appeal board in March.

Mr. Killam was in Europe when the March meeting was held, and when he got back to Vancouver announced he will fight to the last ditch.

LONG DELAY

That means the Canadian Yachting Association, and an appeal that could take months to get a ruling.

The protest involves the rule that a yacht on starboard tack has the right of way over a yacht on a port tack, said Mr. Piddington.

Court Told of Street Fight

A 20-year-old youth told in city court Friday how he threw a beer bottle in the face of a stranger on Douglas Street two weeks ago.

Gerald Haldane, now serving a nine-months sentence for the trial of Gary Johnson, 1189 Goldstream, who is also charged with taking part in the attack.

Haldane said Johnson had struck the man before he threw the bottle at him. Haldane said the victim was "bleeding pretty badly" when the pair of them ran back to their car and drove off.

Haldane testified the two of them, with other youths, had been standing on Douglas Street when the man they attacked came up to them.

He said the man said to them "What are you punks looking for, trouble or something?" He said Johnson hit him but only after the man had first grabbed Johnson.

Haldane said the man then turned to him "so I threw a beer bottle in his face."

Haldane said he, Johnson and the other youths then went to Johnson Street where he hit a fellow he saw standing on the sidewalk outside the Olympic Hotel.

Haldane said: "He went down. . . I kicked this guy once." But he said he didn't see Johnson attack anyone on Johnson Street.

The trial was adjourned.

Billy First To Register For Y Camp

Nine-year-old Billy Sherwood is of age now to attend the YM-YWCA Camp Thunderbird and he is "making sure there will be space for him . . ."

He was first to register this year.

Billy had his first taste of camping last summer when he attended a weekend Cub camp. Now he is looking forward to spending two weeks with 96 other boys as they learn to swim, boat and camp out in the Sooke Hills around Gilnz Lake.

This is the first year for Camp Thunderbird to operate on a two-week basis, and Billy's mother, Mrs. A. E. Sherwood, is all for it. "At a one-week camp the boys hardly get to know one another before it is time to go home; two weeks is much better," she said.

STAFF READY
YMCA youth director George Warren said today counsellors and senior staff members have already been chosen and counselling sessions at the camp are underway. Weekend training sessions in boating, carpentry and archery will start in June.

Camp brochures and registration forms are now available at the YMCA.

Increase Seen In Tourist Trade

Victoria can expect more tourists this year than in 1963, the Victoria Chamber of Commerce was told Friday.

Chamber director Pat Frumento was reporting back after a 2,075-mile journey through California with a travelling publicity show.

With Dominion Hotel manager W. T. Clark, he made 48 calls and presented a slide show to six groups of travel and tour people.

UP 10 PER CENT
During his visits, Mr. Frumento heard enough to convince him last year's number of tourists will increase from 10 to 15 per cent.

"Many of these will be the 'small tourists' who don't travel by auto. They come by bus and trains and similar ways."

This trend, he said, can be expected to continue during the next few years.

The group tours are really being developed by the transportation companies and by the travel agencies, he said.

SLIDE SHOW
The slide show, reproduced Friday for directors, featured bright scenes of Victoria, the Island highlights, and ferry terminals at all points involving Vancouver Island.

Commentary was by Mr. Clark.

Mr. Frumento said particular enthusiasm was shown toward plans for the Route of the Haida to Alaska.

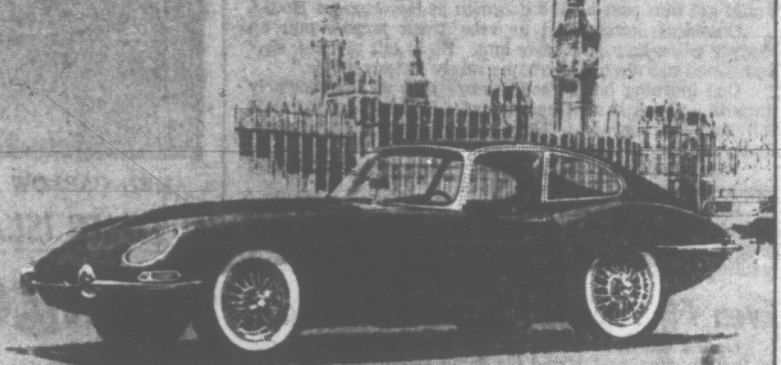

"The people are absolutely hungry for information," he said.

Now persons employed in every walk of life are making application for a Social Insurance Number!

Your government is issuing Social Insurance Number Cards in place of the unemployment insurance numbers that most employed people have had until now. The new numbers will help government to use modern office methods for greater efficiency in handling unemployment insurance, and also other social benefits such as proposed pension plans.

For these reasons, you are invited to apply for a Social Insurance Number, even if you are not a contributor to the unemployment insurance plan. Here's what you do:—

IF YOU ARE AN EMPLOYEE: Your employer will give you an application form for a Social Insurance Number. You can help most by completing it promptly and accurately and returning the form to your employer. He will send it to the nearest office of the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

IF YOU ARE UNEMPLOYED: If you are receiving unemployment insurance benefit you will complete an application form for a Social Insurance Number when you report to the U.I.C. in person or by mail.

IF YOU ARE AN EMPLOYER: If you are an employer registered with the Unemployment Insurance Commission—you will automatically receive application forms. You are asked to distribute them to your employees, have them completed and signed by each employee and returned promptly together, not individually, to the local office of the Commission.

If you are an employer who is not registered with the Unemployment Insurance Commission—please get in touch with your local Unemployment Insurance Commission office and inform them how many employees you have. The Unemployment Insurance Commission office will then send you application forms for each of your employees to complete. When all forms have been completed, you will return them to the Unemployment Insurance Commission. Your employees' Social Insurance Number Cards will be sent to you for distribution to them.

Your government asks for your co-operation in introducing the new numbers as quickly as possible. Apply for your SOCIAL INSURANCE NUMBER NOW.

RUSK

Dean Rusk Murder Target?

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. and South Vietnamese security forces braced today for a possible attempt on the life of U.S. State Secretary Rusk amid reports that Viet Cong suicide squads might make such a move. The massive air-ground security net thrown around Rusk was tightened after a terrorist bomb was tossed into a military bus early today wounding two U.S. servicemen.

One intelligence report said a Communist suicide squad planned a grenade assassination like that used to kill Thai Lap Thanh, Vietnamese governor-general under the former French regime after the end of the Second World War.

Police intelligence reports said the Communist Viet Cong planned a wave of bomb explosions in Saigon during the three-day Rusk visit. The bombs were to be directed at electrical transformers around the city, U.S. military installations and American vehicles.

OFF 18 DAYS

Belgian Doctors At Work

BRUSSELS (AP)—The Belgian government today ordered demobilization of military reserve doctors as Belgium's 12,000 physicians and dentists returned to their offices after an 18-day strike.

The interior and defence ministries directed all doctors called to active duty last Sunday to report immediately to provincial commanders for demobilization. The order was broadcast by the state radio.

The strike ended even though the dispute over a new socialized medicine law which caused it remained unresolved.

The doctors agreed to meet with the government next Wednesday in an attempt to settle their differences over the controversial legislation.

Belgium's embattled medical profession agreed to call off the strike after 15½ hours of intensive negotiations during which the rectors of Belgium's four universities acted as intermediaries.

Afterwards Premier Theo Lefevre said "conditions now are ripe to reach a prompt agreement on the law which would leave no bitterness."

LABOR BACKS PLAN

The government is under strong pressure from Belgium's labor unions to resist major changes in the law which would give more than half of Belgium's 9,000,000 people free medical care or require them to pay only a token charge.

The doctors claim their offices would be flooded with cranks imagining ailments, hospital facilities would become overcrowded considerable book-keeping would be involved and the set fees are too low.

49 Die In Jet Crash

BAHREIN, Persian Gulf (AP)—Divers reached the wreckage of a jetliner in the Persian Gulf today and reported they have given up all hope of finding any survivors among the 49 persons—including 23 Americans—aboard, an airline spokesman said.

However the search continued after divers reported finding only four bodies in the craft.

The Caravelle of Middle East Airlines—Air Liban—plunged into the gulf while trying to land in a swirling sandstorm Friday night at Doha, Saudi Arabia. It was just three minutes from landing time.

WITH OIL FIRM

Most of the Americans aboard were employed or connected with the Arabian American Oil Company (Aramco) which has headquarters and a complex for its employees at Doha.

Rescue operations were being impeded by rough weather, which began easing slightly after dark, the spokesman said.

The twin-jet airliner went down in the Gulf about halfway between Doha, an oil city near the Arabian coast, and the archipelago of islands which make up this British-protected Arab sheikdom 15 miles offshore.

An airline spokesman in Beirut, Lebanon, where the flight originated, said the jetliner was flying over wind-whipped desert only three minutes northwest of Doha when radio contact was lost Friday.

RAN INTO STORM

The twin-jet airliner took off from Beirut on the two-hour non-stop flight to Doha and ran into the sandstorm near the end of the 1,100-mile hop.

Visibility was near zero when the plane began its approach for the night-time landing, then overflowed the airport.

Islanders Sleep In Death Sheets

By AB KENT

Two Vancouver Island youths discovered Friday they had slept between sheets from a shipment contaminated with a lethal chemical used to make military nerve gas.

Unlike two North Vancouver boys, they suffered no ill effects.

The two mainlanders, aged five and 11 years, were in comas for 18 hours after coming into contact with flannel-ette sheets damaged by a powerful insecticide concentrate en route by ship from Antwerp.

Both are recovering in hospital after doctors discovered at the last minute what the poison was, enabling them to administer antidotes.

Altogether 500 sheets were disposed of through a salvage dealer in Vancouver, mostly in the Lower Mainland area, although some were sold to Echo Lodge rest home at Hilliers, central Vancouver Island.

All sheets were traced and warnings about them issued Friday night.

The Echo Lodge, operated by Mrs. Lillian Campbell, had not placed the sheets in general service.

"We got 10 pairs," said Fred Campbell, her son, "but only two were used, by my brother, Hugh, and me."

"They were washed first. We had a visit from the local health nurse about it and the health officer will be here on Monday to decide what to do with them."

The health authorities had launched a wide-spread search for 24 to 40 sheets unaccounted for Friday, and the missing ones turned up Friday night. The investigation involved Vancouver quarantine officer

Angus Mackie, North Vancouver MHO; Dr. Lewis S. Anderson, local health services and the federal food and drug administration.

Dr. Anderson said the sheets were stained with a brown, oily insecticidal spray that leaked from a container on shipboard. It is of a type that is diluted with water and used as pest control in orchards and fields.

The concentrate resists washing, he said, and is known for its persistence. "There was a case last year in California where a consignment of boys' jeans was contaminated and six youngsters were stricken."

Food and drug technicians discovered the substance was parathion, an organic phosphate that can be absorbed by the skin and enters the bloodstream and nervous system to produce a paralytic effect.

It may be destroyed by burning.

Mr. Mackie, who headed the task of tracing the sheets, said about 200 of the shipment actually bore stain marks and tests will be run on the others to see if they can be salvaged.

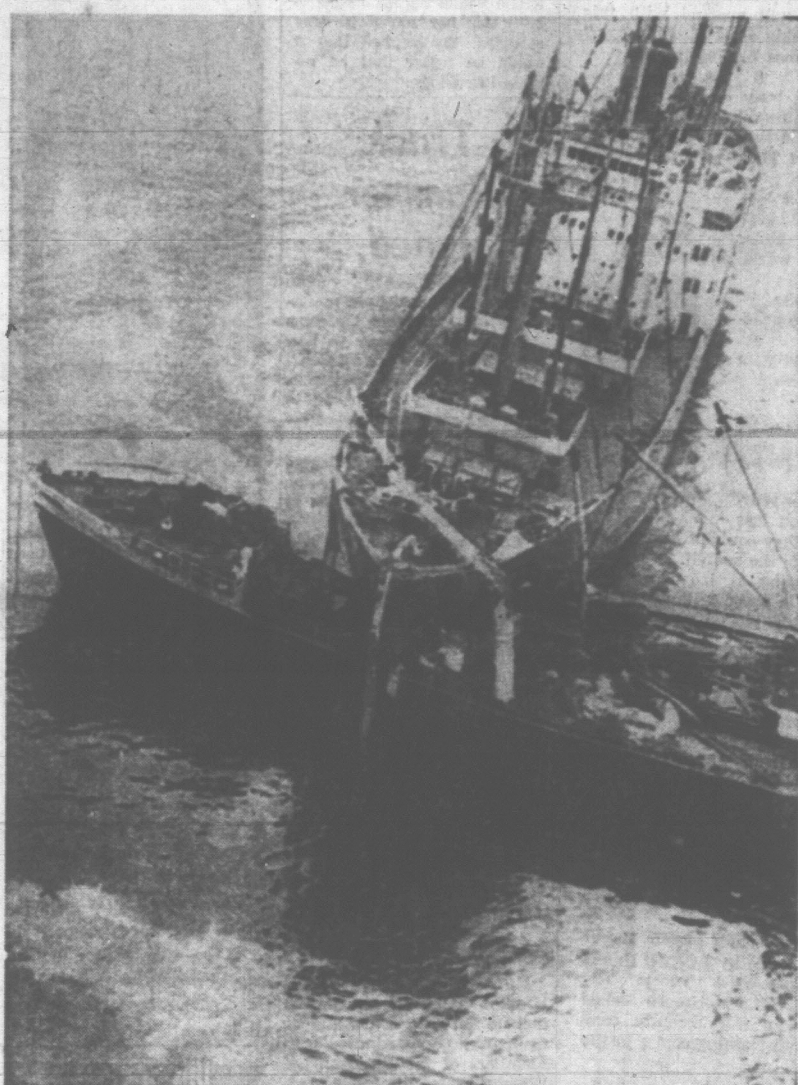

He likened the spray to military counterpart phosgene, designed to be sprayed in a fine mist, the effect of which can be deadly.

M' Uncle Zeke plunged in base metals once—but he got caught off base.

Cuban Refugees Adrift on Ocean

Cubans in another small boat accompanying the missing craft were plucked to safety in a basket lowered from a helicopter Friday night.

The rescued refugees were described as cold but in good condition. The three men and two women, one of them five months pregnant, asked that their names be withheld.

around the property where Texas Gulf Sulphur Company has hit one of the biggest bonanzas ever.

Asked how much he has made on his ventures, he just smiles and says he is not sure.

The 33-year-old millionaire, father of three children, started staking his claims after "seeing a Texas Gulf helicopter going by my house all the time."

His dealings have netted him not only cash but blocks of stock in mining companies.

He has sold claims to PCE Explorations, Bunker Hill Mining Company, Glenn Uranium, Bruce Presto Mines and Con-West Exploration. But the best is yet to come. Mr. Bragagnolo said: "I expect to close my biggest deal Monday."

He says that when all his deals are completed—so far he has sold 50 claims and has 30 companies bidding for the remaining 180—he will make as much again as he has so far.

Funeral Held For Pioneer Missionary

PORT ALBERNI — Funeral services were held at First Baptist Church here today for Rev. John Telford Ross, a pioneer missionary among West Coast Indians.

He died at Sunset Inn, Qualicum, earlier this week. Born 96 years ago in Leith, Ont., he came to Alberni in 1895, and from then until 1950 served in mission fields on the coast and on the prairies for the Presbyterian Church.

An expert carpenter, he built houses and churches on the reserves along the Island's west coast and one of his projects was the building of Little Church on the Corner.

CHURCH LOST

The church, at Beaver Creek and River Roads, was one of the buildings swept away in the March 28 tidal wave.

For a time, Mr. Ross was also principal of the Indian school at Ahousat.

He is survived by the widow, Louise, two grandchildren, Mrs. Allan (Audrey) Thompson, Victoria, and Daniel Ross, Alberni; four great-grandchildren.

Experts Dying to Know Who's Dyeing the Gulls

VANCOUVER (CP)—Somebody is painting seagulls. Dr. Ian McTaggart Cowan wants him to fess up.

"We'd like to know who it is and what he's up to," said the University of British Columbia zoologist Friday. "Whoever it is has been at it since before Christmas."

The birds, in pink, red and yellow hue, have been spotted throughout the Gulf of Georgia, as far north as Campbell River and as far south as the Gulf Islands.

Lawyer Ronald MacIsaac, for one, was happy to find out about it because he thought he saw a bluish-pink gull two weeks ago and "didn't have nerve enough" to admit it.

Indian Rec Centre Proposed for Port

PORT ALBERNI—First step towards establishing an Indian Friendship Centre was taken at a meeting held here this week.

More than 30 persons, representing a large number of Alberni Valley organizations, appointed Dr. Harry Webster and Bill Beckingham to head a pro-tem ways and means committee to get the centre started.

The meeting was arranged and chaired by Mayor Les Hammer of Port Alberni, who stressed the need for a common meeting ground for Indians and whites, especially teenagers from isolated reserves.

The mayor pointed out the Friendship Centre would provide an opportunity for interested people in the community
